Air Photos of Cuba Shown on Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has flashed across the nation's television screens an unprecedented display of intelligence data to support its stand that Cuba is free of Soviet offensive weapons.

Stratton Assails Keating Anew for 'Flimsy Charges'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., charges Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., gave out "flimsy off-again, on-again self-contradictory...supposedly inside information" while "desperately trying to build a reputation regarding Cuba."

Stratton's statement Wednesday was his second attack in two days on information made public by Keating on the communist build-up in Cuba.

Remarks Don't Jibe

On Tuesday, Stratton said the senator was guilty of "disgraceful irresponsibility" and "partisan claptrap" for, as Stratton put it, pretending to know more about Cuba than defense intelligence officials.

In Wednesday's statement, Stratton criticized comments by Keating in an exclusive Associated Press interview.

Stratton said the senator's remarks in the interview did not jibe with the text of Keating's Senate speech last week as it appeared in the Congressional Record.

Stratton quoted Keating as saying in the speech, in reference to medium range missile sites, that there had been "no Soviet move to dismantle these concrete sites or withdraw the launching bases."

In the Associated Press interview, Keating said he was referring in the speech to medium range missile sites that had gravel

Says Hoffa, Top Aides Still Do Not Have Bonds

CHICAGO (AP)—The Tribune said today that James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president, and other top Teamsters officials have failed to obtain satisfactory surety bonds although they are required under the Landrum-Griffin labor law to have them in effect by Friday.

The Tribune said that Frank Wright Sr., president of United Bonding Co., Indianapolis, who promised to provide the bonds, offered a proposal that was too little—and probably too late.

Fee Victory Would Kill Rocky: Labor

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The raging dispute over Gov. Rockefeller's plan to raise motor-vehicle fees an average $9.50 per vehicle had a new element today—the Republican governor's apparent presidential ambitions.

The head of the state's largest labor organization said that Rockefeller's chances of winning the presidency would be wrecked if the governor won his battle to gain legislative approval of the fee increase.

Not Disputed: Keating

Keating, a New York Republican who has been making charges since last August about Cuba's military might, said none of his statements had been disputed by McNamara in the television report which featured an intelligence expert and many reconnaissance photographs.

Many of the before-and-after photographs of missile sites and shots of Soviet ships at sea with missiles and crated IL28 bombers aboard had been made public before, during last fall's crisis.

Account in Detail

But never before had the American people been given such a thorough account of how the United States detected the Soviet missile bases and rode herd at long range on departure of the missiles and bombers virtually every step of the way.

The administration's aim obviously was to impress the American people with the ability of U.S. aerial cameras and intelligence experts to ferret out whatever

Recognize Need to Do Big Job

Consider Wages For Work Families

The Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters, representing affiliated carpenter unions in 10 counties, has acted in support of Governor Rockefeller's proposal to increase automobile license fees. The action taken by the Council will be disclosed to the Governor in a letter which was drafted Wednesday by the Council, George E. Yerry Jr., president of the Council, stated today.

While the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters was endorsing the proposed increase in automobile license fees, the state AFL-CIO yesterday announced it was opposed to the fee increase. Raymond R. Corbett, AFL-CIO president, declared his organization "solidly opposed" to Governor Rockefeller's move.

To Press for Program

The Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters maintains branch offices in Middletown, Monticello, Newburgh and Oneonta, with the principal office in Kingston.

"We will use every means to foster support for your program," the letter to the governor concludes.

In announcing its support for the proposed increase in motor vehicle license fees, the Hudson Valley District Council of Carpenters in its letter to the Governor says:

"We, like many others regret the need of increasing state revenues in any manner but recognize the impossibility of building new roads, bridges, schools, colleges, institutions, etc., without proper financing."

Supports Families

"The construction of new highways, furnishes jobs for carpenters, laborers, truck drivers, ironworkers, engineers and others. The wages of these men, so employed, enable them to support their families, pay their bills and to contribute to the economic welfare of their communities."

"In many of our rural areas, a highway construction job, provides the only means of employment for many workmen now unemployed. The loss of such a project creates

Salapatis Is Appointed Planning Board Chairman

John C. Salapatis, of 25 Harding Avenue, former assistant city engineer, and now a forest surveyor for the New York State Conservation Department, was today named Kingston Planning Board chairman by Mayor John J. Schwenk.

He succeeds Elmore C. Yallum, of 79 Highland Avenue, who was appointed to the board in 1959 to finish the unexpired term of J. Ellis Briggs. Yallum was reappointed in 1960 and his term expired Tuesday, Feb. 5. He served as chairman through the full term.

Mayor Schwenk, in announcing appointment of the new chairman, called attention "to the great sacrifice in time and energy made by Mr. Yallum towards development and eventual adoption of a comprehensive plan for the city."

Go Easy On U.S., Tip to Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (AP)—Canada's plunge into a new national election campaign was accompanied today by pressure on Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker to go easy on anti-Americanism. The pressure came from both inside and outside his Conservative party.

Diefenbaker, 67, went through the formalities Wednesday of dissolving Parliament and calling for new elections April 8 after his regime was unseated by two non-confidence votes in the House of Commons. The move did not affect the Senate, whose members serve for life.

Despite his defeat in Commons, Diefenbaker's shaken Conservative party closed ranks behind him as its leader. Earlier some Conservatives had called for him to step aside.

Still Makes Charge

Although some Conservative leaders declared that anti-Americanism will not be a campaign issue, the prime minister as recently as Tuesday accused the United States of more meddling in Canada. Diefenbaker appeared committed to hit hard on the question of Canadian sovereignty and the idea that "nobody is going to push Canada around."

The Liberal party, under the leadership of a Nobel Peace Prize winner, Lester B. Pearson, has deplored the rift between Canada and the United States over the nuclear weapons issue. It says it hopes anti-Americanism will be kept out of the campaign.

Favor Good Relations

If it does come up, the Liberals say, they will take a stand in favor of restoring good relations with Canada's friends and allies. The conservative Ottawa Journal agreed with Diefenbaker that the United States was wrong in intervening in Canada's nuclear debate, but it added:

"This issue must not be carried down into the gutter of reckless talk. This is no time for 'no truck or trade with the Yankees.'"

Pearson also said he did not believe nuclear weapons should be a political issue. That should be a matter for government decision, he said.

The real issues of the campaign, said Pearson, are unemployment, economic growth and confidence in the Canadian economy plus the need for decisive, purposeful government by a majority party.

Job Insurance Costs Are Detrimental, Report Says

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The state's largest employer group warns that "skyrocketing" costs of unemployment insurance in the state are having an adverse effect on Gov. Rockefeller's goal of increasing job opportunities.

Joseph R. Shaw, president of Associated Industries Inc., said Wednesday in a letter to the governor, that rising unemployment insurance rates in the state made it "increasingly difficult for steady job-providing businesses to operate."

Shaw said "unemployment inurance costs can be a real and significant factor in a company's decision to expand here or elsewhere."

Associated Industries appealed to Rockefeller to support a bill that would distribute the cost more equitably among employers.

The cost of the program, which pays up to $5 a week for a maximum of 26 weeks to an unemployed worker, is borne entirely by employers. More than 400,000 employers contribute about $500 million a year to the program.

Associated Industries long has

Marines Take March As Proof of Fitness

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—U.S. Marines are on the march to prove they are just as fit as the Leathernecks of Teddy Roosevelt's day.

From Florida to Arizona, it was "pick 'em up and lay 'em down" for some proud members of a proud corps who took a suggestion from President Kennedy as a challenge and set out to meet it.

The challenge: Hike 50 miles in 20 hours, double-time the last half-mile and run the final 20 yards.

The first to report mission accomplished was Lt. Col. James W. Tuma, 49, a Marine stationed at the U.S. Army Electronic Proving Ground at Ft. Huachuca, near Tucson, Ariz.

"I had a notion I could do it," he said after stepping off 50 miles in 13½ hours Wednesday.

At Pensacola, Fla., Marine Sgt. Stanton E. Jordan set out on his day off, hiking around a 5-mile course at the naval air station, where he is a drill instructor.

"I consider this a personal challenge," the 37-year-old sergeant told reporter Pete Williams of the Pensacola News-Journal.

Five Marine reservists started out shortly before midnight to hoof it 50 miles to Little Rock, Ark., where their reserve unit is based.

"For the honor of the corps," one said when asked why he joined the hikers.

The rules of the hike were set

Economist Rated Edge as British Laborites Vote

LONDON (AP)—Britain's opposition Labor party faced the prospect of an inconclusive first ballot today in the three-man race for a new leader whose chief task will be to preserve party unity.

Could Become PM

The man finally chosen could well be Britain's next prime minister if he can hold the party's opposing factions together. But observers doubted that the party had united behind one man and picked a leader on the first ballot.

Medicare Gets Plug In Message

Kennedy Advises Pepping Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today prescribed ways to pep up the nation's health services—then got in a quick plug for his politically hot medicare proposals he may send Congress next week.

Today's message to Capitol Hill spelled out how the $1.6 billion in health funds—requested in his budget for the fiscal year starting next July 1—would be spent. It's $250 million more than the price tag in the current fiscal year.

Steps Proposed

The President proposed steps to:

Encourage and support training of more doctors, dentists and nurses, by helping build new and expand existing schools.

Extend for five years authority to share costs of building new hospitals, boost funds for new nursing homes, and share costs of hospital modernization.

Strengthen federal authority over sales of cosmetics, over-the-counter drugs and other health items.

Require cosmetic manufacturers to prove the safety of their wares and health device producers to prove both safety and effectiveness.

The President devoted two paragraphs in his 10-page message to what he called "a tragic irony that medical science has kept millions of retired men and women alive to face illnesses they cannot afford."

"Needless suffering in silence, financial catastrophe, public or private charity—these are not acceptable alternatives in the richest country on earth," he said. "Social Security health insurance must be enacted this year."

It was an advance bow for his medicare proposals, defeated in Congress last year. He intends to ask for it again in a general message on aging which a spokesman said would probably come next week.

The President also wants to boost research and control of air pollution and general health research by the National Institutes of Health.

The President called the shortage of nurses and dentists "particularly serious" since the schools are not graduating enough trained persons to keep up with the growth of the population.

Physicians Needed

"In 1950, there were 1,300 people in the United States for each family physician," he said. "The present outlook—unless steps are taken now—is for more than 2,000 people per family physician by 1970."

He also pointed to the shortage of nurses—and the estimated need to increase today's professional nursing ranks of 550,000 to 680,000 by 1970. About 4,000 nurses are graduated from colleges each year.

The President recommended extending the 16-year-old Hill-Burton Act, due to expire June 30, 1964, for another five years. It permits federal sharing of hospital building costs. The President wants it widened to include modernization costs, and funds increased for nursing homes for older people.

He also asked Congress to provide a five-year program in which

Chosen as Local Citizen of Year

NATHAN AARON

Saugerties has chosen its Outstanding Citizen. This singular honor has fallen to a man who has spent an arduous year in a dedicated effort to better the community. Nathan Aaron, the judges' unanimous choice, has been active in a variety of civic projects.

His most difficult assignment of the year was a long and discouraging attempt to bring the Ulster County Community College to Saugerties. The fact that the site in Saugerties was not chosen can never be attributed to any lack of thoroughness and perseverance. To date he has not conceded defeat on this point.

Aaron who came to Saugerties to retire became interested and active in the welfare and progress of the town that was to be his home. Now in his 14th year of retirement, his optimism and enthusiasm have not diminished. At the present time he is president of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce, a member of the village planning board, member of Ulster Lodge No. 193, F&AM and the Saugerties Lions.

During the past year he attended a weekly course held at the Orange County Community College, Middletown on community planning.

The Assemblage Days, one of the projects for which Saugerties received statewide recognition were originated under his direction and held in 1958, '59 and '60.

AP Ushers in New Service

NEW YORK (AP)—The North American and European Wirephoto networks of The Associated Press were linked Wednesday in the formal opening of the first transatlantic photo cable circuit leased by a news service on a 24-hour basis.

Dean Does Honors
Sir Patrick Dean, the British ambassador to the United Nations, activated the circuit at AP's New York headquarters. Instantly, a picture began moving into London and other European Wirephoto points in Great Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, and Finland. The U.S. charge d'affaires in London, Lewis Jones, activated a similar Britain-to-U.S. start in AP's London bureau.

The simultaneous two-way picture transmission was typical of what can be done at any hour of the day or night. Many such transmissions were made during tests before Wednesday's opening.

At the ceremony, Sir Patrick said: "This new photo cable link across the Atlantic has been brought about as a result of great advances in technology in Great Britain and the United States."

"I hope very much that it will give both sides of the Atlantic clearer pictures to look at and a clearer picture of our two countries."

Deputy General Manager Harry T. Montgomery of The Associated Press said:

"The establishment of this transatlantic photo cable circuit not only means better quality pictures and faster operations, but it is a link between newspapers on both continents. Both now will have the advantage of assured delivery of highest fidelity news pictures within minutes."

Superior to Radio Pictures

"Europe and America are already linked by a leased AP cable teleprinter circuit carrying the latest news reports. It is fitting that AP pictures—many of them illustrating these news reports—will now move with the same flexibility that goes with operation of a leased news wire."

More than 650 newspapers and television stations in the United States and Canada receive pictures from AP's Wirephoto network of 40,000 miles of leased wires.

Photos sent by cable are superior in quality to those sent by radio.

Open House Will Mark Scout Week For Area Troops

Observing the 53rd anniversary of the Boy Scouts of America, under the theme of "Strengthen America . . . Be Prepared, Be Fit," the 4,500 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers, and adult volunteer leaders of the Rip Van Winkle Council, begin a one-week observance today.

Clifford A. Henze, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council, said today that one of the highlights of the anniversary will be "open house" meetings conducted by the Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops and Explorer units in the Council.

"These programs," Henze said, "will reveal the excitement of our three programs to parents of members and to their neighbors and friends who have boys old enough to join. The programs have been planned to entertain and encourage participation by all guests. We hope that all will get a better understanding of the aim and objectives of the Boy Scout movement."

One emphasis of this year's Scout Week, which concludes Feb. 13, is placed on the fitness activities of the movement and the progress made in its "Fit for Tomorrow" program.

All members will take part in the annual rededication ceremony Friday, Feb. 8, either at unit meetings, patrol meetings, or in members' homes. They renew their pledge to live up to the Scout Oath or Promise.

On Sunday, Feb. 10, members in uniform will accompany their parents to church. Many Scouts in the Council are to receive religious awards presented by their respective churches for their knowledge of the history of their religion, participation in religious activities, and services rendered in special projects assigned by their minister, priest, or rabbi.

IS THIS A COLLECT CALL?—This is the age of speed—we may even see instant diplomacy if the Kennedy administration gets Soviet approval for a direct teletype to its Moscow embassy, as it has in other ambassadorial centers.

Freshman Albany Lawmaker on Spot

Terry in Similar Predicament That Led to Schoeneck Ouster

By CHARLES DUMAS

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Assemblyman John H. Terry is a freshman lawmaker on the spot.

The handsome, 38-year-old Republican from Syracuse expected an uneventful "break-in" session when he came to the Legislature this year.

A 'Budget Rebel'

But Terry, once a loyal member of Gov. Rockefeller's personal staff, suddenly finds himself hip-deep in a fight with his old boss.

He's a "budget rebel"—pledged to oppose Rockefeller's plan to raise motor-vehicle registration charges.

Moreover, through an odd twist of fate, he has landed in the same predicament that led to the downfall of the man whose Assembly seat he now fills — Charles A. Schoeneck.

Schoeneck joined with fellow Republican lawmakers from Onondaga County four years ago to oppose the $27-million tax increase Rockefeller sought his first year in office.

Under pressure from the governor and the Assembly's GOP leadership, Schoeneck backed down and cast the vote that enabled Rockefeller's plan to go through. A few months later, Schoeneck was named to the coveted post of Assembly majority leader.

But the incident apparently set ill with the tax-conscious voters of Syracuse. The normally Republican Assembly district turned Schoeneck out in favor of a Democrat in the 1960 election.

Avenge Pal's Defeat

All this time, Terry was serving as first assistant secretary to the governor, a post he left in the spring of 1961 to resume a promising law practice in Syracuse.

Last year, Terry set out to avenge the defeat of Schoeneck, a close friend and frequent golfing partner. He beat the Democratic incumbent, George P. Savage, by 2,900 votes.

In the course of the campaign, Terry promised—Schoeneck had—to hold the line on state taxes.

When Rockefeller called last week for a $48-million increase in registration fees, Terry and his Assembly and Senate colleagues from the Syracuse area went into a huddle and declared themselves opposed.

Vows Pledge to Voters

Other lawmakers joined in, and now, as in 1959, the revolt is in full flower. Also getting under way, as in 1959, is the counter-effort by GOP leaders and the governor to break the revolt and win enough rebels back to put through the Rockefeller plan.

During last year's campaign, the Democratic candidate said Terry had been "an $18,000 office boy" for the governor and would do Rockefeller's bidding if elected to the Assembly.

"I regard the governor as a friend," Terry told the Associated Press this week, "and I wouldn't want to do anything to hurt him. But I made a promise to the voters and I'm going to keep it."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, FEBRUARY 7, 1963

SCIENCE KNOW-HOW

California has roughly 40 per cent of the nation's missile and space work, clustered mainly around the huge scientific-educational complexes in the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas.

Massachusetts, offering an even more spectacular scientific center around Boston, also stands high. And it has attracted much related industrial effort in such fields as electronics.

New York figures somewhat in this same picture. So, on a smaller but growing scale, do Maryland and Virginia, where industries keyed to space-missile research have sprung up around the focus of the government establishment itself.

Suddenly, however, men in government are indicating their concern that these efforts have been concentrated too narrowly —speaking in terms both of geography and of educational institutions.

Mentioned in President Kennedy's new education message, and set forth in his 1964 budget, is a proposal to spread the scientific-educational base so wider participation in the most advanced government and industrial programs may be possible.

Specifically, the President wants some $90 million for the coming fiscal year — about three times the current allotment—to permit the National Science Foundation to extend its program of matching grants for the improvement of science facilities at institutions of higher education.

What the government wants to do, say some top officials, is get away from awarding grants to schools simply on the basis of present excellence. The net effect of that practice is to make the already busy, high-rated institutions, like Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Stanford and the University of California, bigger and busier still.

The administration would like to put some of this particular grant money into schools and regions where today there is merely a potential for development.

No specific examples are cited by officials.
But North Carolina's not altogether unheralded "research triangle," a budding industrial development fed by three nearby schools, is perhaps a good illustration of the "potential" in some sectors.

This 4,600-acre project could conceivably be a thriving site one day. Already it has made a modestly good start.

Other schools and other regions are deeply envious of the big "magnet" areas around Boston and the Pacific coast. They seek to emulate the North Carolina example and build ambitiously from scratch.

Rightly or wrongly, many political leaders have the idea that the economy of their areas will not prosper as they want it to do unless they can get into the electronics-space-missile vanguard.

Aides say the President also sees major economic value if more regions can take part. No one can quarrel with this goal. A balanced effort nearly always has much to recommend it.

It needs to be noted, however, that there is also much potential political benefit from a spreading of favors in this field. Conversely there is danger—as rumblings in some places indicate—in dispensing grants too narrowly. So this particular program could have many charms for many people.

HONOR TO GRANDMA

The thesis that grandmothers are growing younger is strongly supported by the recent East Berlin escape incident involving grandma and six boys ranging in age from 12 to 16. The lady in question (name withheld for security reasons) is 51, and one of the 12-year-olds is her grandson.

The lady has thus been a member of the honorable corps of young grandmothers since the age of 39, and on a recent night she behaved as though she was still about that age. She marshaled her young charges across the hall under the noses of East Berlin guards, and they all made it safely. All of which further puts the kibosh on the outmoded picture of grandma as an elderly type who mostly sits and knits.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WHAT CAN DE GAULLE OFFER MOSCOW?

Professional students of De Gaulle and De Gaulism (and who these days is not?) are busy convincing themselves that the French leader, once he has banished the "Anglo-Saxons" from the councils of Europe, will seek a master accommodation with Khrushchev. This makes for a piquant commentary on events, for only recently, when President John F. Kennedy was busy announcing the removal of Jupiter missile bases from Italy and Turkey, the phone lines to this columnist's home were being scorched with fears that it was the American President who was about to be making a begging trip to the Kremlin.

If both sets of fears are right, we will soon be seeing a strange competition—and some mean-spirited caricaturist will certainly exploit the "Fancy meeting you here" theme as cartoon figures representing De Gaulle and Kennedy sit facing each other in the afternoon to Khrushchev's inner sanctum. But if there is to be a competition between the French and American Presidents for an agreement with Khrushchev, it must, in the nature of things, be a struggle to get really significant Soviet concessions. This, in itself, is a pretty good reason for feeling sure that neither De Gaulle nor Kennedy would ever dare offer Khrushchev the key to West Berlin.

There is, of course, no reason for anti-Communists to trust De Gaulle. The French leader, though he could hardly be called a racist (if he were such, he would not harbor animosity toward his Caucasian cousins, the "Anglo-Saxons"), has a mystical conception of "Europe" as something that extends from the English Channel to the Urals. This puts European Russia inside the Gaullist pale. The purely continental conception of Christendom, which has no historical warrant, excludes not only the British Isles (Christian since the Dark Ages) but all the overseas "children" of Europe in North and Latin America, South Africa and the Antipodes. It may explain, incidentally, how De Gaulle could so cavalierly have sacrificed the French extension of Christendom that had rooted itself on the southern shores of the Mediterranean in Moslem Algeria.

Well, with a basic conception of "Europe" that excludes the Anglo-Saxons and incorporates at least the western half of Russia, De Gaulle would certainly be willing to entertain a revival of the old pre-1914 Franco-Russian entente. He once headed a "national" French government that included Maurice Thorez, the French Communist boss, in a coalition cabinet, which would argue a singular willingness to accommodate Marxists.
But the Channel to the Urals notion of Europe has no internal cohesion or substance. To make it a reality, De Gaulle would have to count on a compliant Germany. And what makes anyone think that such a Germany can be had?

For myself, I would rather guess that the Germans, having tasted the good red meat of economic freedom, have no desire to be cooped up in a "Gaullist Europe" that would tend to limit West German markets. German economics professors who were instrumental in 1948 and afterward in turning Adenauer to the idea that the way to abundance and prosperity was to free the market, are still high in the councils of the Bonn government. These professors were among the earliest to enroll in the international Mt.
Pelerin Society of libertarian economists. They believe in free trade, or at least in freer trade, on a scale that is far bigger than that provided by the "Inner Six" nations of western Europe, and assuredly they will continue to fight for it.
And one of their number, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, may yet succeed Adenauer as head of the German government.

To satisfy Khrushchev, De Gaulle would have to give him something at West German expense.
He would have to barter away West German rights in Berlin, or support a "united" Germany that would give the East German Communists a role in a new central government, or guarantee a "neutralized" central Europe that would be willing to put its trust in a still problematical French atomic defense umbrella. Can you see the West Germans going along with any of this?
I can't.

The DOCTOR SAYS

New Study Relates Cigarettes, Lung Cancer

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The fact that we can no longer ignore the hazards of cigarette smoking was pointed up by the recent ruling of the U. S. Air Force that free cigarettes would no longer be passed out to patients in Air Force hospitals or included in packaged lunches for personnel going on prolonged flights.

The relationship between smoking and the steady increase in lung cancer has been hotly argued and has not yet been completely settled.
Those who say that the real cause of the increase in lung cancer is exhaust fumes from gasoline engines have suffered a real setback. It has been shown that the incidence of lung cancer has increased with the greater use of cigarettes in several parts of the world where there are few, if any, automobiles.

The correlation between the number of cigarettes smoked per day and the number of years a person has been smoking with the increase in lung cancer is so close that any other explanation would be hard to imagine. No evidence has yet been produced to show that cigarette smoking is not a major contributing cause of lung cancer.
But if this is not enough, let's consider the recent study by Auerbach and Stout.

These investigators made microscopic examinations of the lungs of 758 persons who died of diseases other than lung cancer. They proved beyond doubt that cigarette smoking damaged the cells lining the respiratory tract. The hair-like cilia, that set up a current propelling mucus along with dust and other foreign matter from the lungs in the direction of the throat, were first weakened then completely destroyed in chronically heavy smokers.

In time this interferes with the lung's ability to supply oxygen to the blood and this adds to the burden on the heart which must then pump more blood to the tissues to bring them enough oxygen. Cigarette smokers not only had a higher rate of bronchitis than nonsmokers, but also a higher rate of tuberculosis and heart disease.
Furthermore, they not only had a higher rate of lung cancer, but also of cancer of the mouth, throat and gullet.

The fact that all these hazards were higher among cigarette smokers than among those who had been heavy smokers but had quit smoking proves that it is never too late to stop. Much of the early work done on this subject was done in England 10 or 12 years ago and although there was at first much skepticism about the reported results, the acceptance of these results is growing.

In this country, too, more and more doctors are giving up cigarettes. They are doing this for two good reasons; first, to help safeguard their own health and, second, to let their patients know that they are ready to practice what they preach.

Based on the evidence at hand, I would strongly urge all those, especially those young people who do not smoke, never to start. Those who smoke cigarettes do so entirely from habit but this is not an addiction like the use of narcotics or the abuse of alcohol. All that is needed to stop is a real desire to stop and a strong will. There are none of the agonizing withdrawal symptoms felt by a narcotic addict.

Europe is bitter about France keeping Britain out of the Common Market. Everyone relishes French cooking, but when it comes to cooking up plans the De Gaulle government puts in too much self-interest seasoning.

Ransom When They Run Out of Relatives?"

Washington News

WASHINGTON—(NEA) — A guide to the mind of Secretary of State Dean Rusk is now obtainable through a new book containing some 60 selections from his speeches and foreign policy statements during the last two years.

EDITED BY ace newsman

Ernest Lindley, who is now Rusk's special assistant, the volume is titled, "The Winds of Freedom" (Beacon Press, $4.95).
The title should mislead no one into thinking it is a windy book.
Rusk is a fast thinker and a fast talker. But he is by no means a windy character. And concise editing has boiled down his policy statements to their very essence.

One of the interesting things to do with this book is to take one subject and, by means of the index, track down Rusk's ideas on it, Communism, for instance, and the related subjects of the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev, Stalin, the Sino-Soviet bloc.

There is no one speech or declaration which fully and in detail outlines a policy for dealing with international communism wherever it is found. To some readers this may be a fundamental fault. But references to communism crop up all through the book and there is no evidence here that he is "soft" on it.

THE LAST CHAPTER of the book highlights his speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars in Minneapolis last August, titled
"Our Goal: A World-Wide Victory For Freedom."

"The global struggle for freedom and against Communist imperialism is our main business at the State Department," says

Rusk. "My colleagues and I give intensive attention, day by day, to Communist strategy and tactics."

"No one has to convince us that when Khrushchev said communism will bury us he was proclaiming... an objective toward which Communists work relentlessly."

"No one has to convince us that 'peaceful coexistence' means to them a continuing attempt to spread their system over the earth by all means short of a war which would be self-defeating."

"No one has to convince us that the contest between Communist imperialism and freedom is for keeps."

Here is an insight of a very tough-minded man.

"The underlying crisis is not an ideological conflict between 19th century capitalism and 19th century socialism," Rusk had told National Press Club audience earlier. "It does not result from a bilateral conflict between the Soviet Union and the United States."

"The central issue of the crisis upon those not already subjected to impose a world of coercion is the announced determination to it. If this means exaggerated simplicity, let us not be mistaken by our own reluctance to believe what they say, for on this point they mean it. At stake is the survival and growth of the world of free choice. . . ."

Returning to the Minneapolis text for a moment: "One hears now and then that we have a 'win' purpose or policies," Rusk told the VFW. "That is simply not so. Of course we intend to win. And we are going to win."

RUSK IS PERHAPS still not as well known in the United States as were Dean Acheson and the late John Foster Dulles in their times. They were more controversial figures who made and announced United States foreign policies in the names of others. Rusk subordinates himself to President Kennedy as the head of state constitutionally responsible for American foreign policy.

It may surprise many people, therefore, that in his first two years in office Rusk has traveled more miles than Dulles did in a comparable period of time.
Rusk has what is described as a machine-gun mind. He wants his associates to think as fast as he does, and he cannot stand mediocrity on his staff. But in negotiation with an opponent he can be extremely patient, repeating his points endlessly to drive them home. He is tireless, with a physical stamina that enables him to take the punishment of his never-ending job.

"The Winds of Freedom" is probably just the first of what will be a series of volumes on Rusk's conduct of foreign policy.
It is, in a sense, an index to his global philosophy.

Originally the American Stock

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Looking through the Kingston Freeman of Sept. 1, 1911 on page two there is a coverage on the Mona Lisa which was stolen from the Louvre in Paris Aug. 22, 1911.
It seems an American art collector at the time was under suspicion as he was in Paris at the time of the theft. It seems he was a wealthy American from a western city and a great admirer of the famous Mona Lisa.

Newspapers are a wonderful source of information, looking through the Kingston Freeman of Dec. 16, 1913 on page 6 is the coverage of the findings of this famous painting. This item was from Rome, Dec. 13, 1913, and it told about the international event of major importance which was made of the return to the French government of the priceless art masterpiece. It is better known in the art circles of Europe as the "La Gioconda" than as the "Mona Lisa."

This painting which is in America today, in Washington, D. C. and then will go to New York City to be admired by Americans, was stolen from the Louvre in Paris on Aug. 22, 1911 and later discovered in Florence, Italy. At that time it was to be returned to the French government through the ambassador at Rome and was accompanied with brilliant ceremonies designed to cement the friendships of the two governments.

Details are not given at either time how stolen the painting was, but the name of the thief was Vincent Peruggia. He declared he stole the painting in retaliation for wrongs committed against Italy by Napoleon.

We have seen on our TV sets with what care and many guards the Mona Lisa was brought to this country and transported from New York City pier to Washington, D. C. After this fa-

Today in World Affairs

Lack of Fairness, Honesty Keeps Sunshine From World

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Will the sunshine ever come back? This isn't just a plaintive reference to the weather. It is the meta-phorical query of millions of people today as they survey the growing gloom in world affairs.
There's trouble everywhere.
Here are some but not all of the perplexities:

1. Fifty-seven American boys have given their lives in South Vietnam to a cause vaguely described as checking Communism's military advance in Southeast Asia.

2. The Soviets have established a military base in Cuba with somewhere between 20,000 and 30,000 troops and "technicians." But what do the "technicians" do, and how many missiles and planes are there in Cuba for them to operate? Why does the United States Government sacrifice American lives in South Vietnam, 5,000 miles away, and yet hesitate to take risks to assure the safety of its citizens residing in the southeastern part of this country who could be attacked by "defensive" weapons now accumulated on an island 90 miles away from our shores? Why are the Soviets permitted to continue their flagrant violations of the Monroe Doctrine? Why does the administration continue to quibble about "defensive" weapons? People throughout America are worried about Cuba.

3. The Western Alliance is wobbling. Quarrels over economic security and particularly trade have disrupted plans for a "Common Market" of low tariffs. Bitter denunciations of the French fill the press in Britain and in other parts of the world. Nationalism is blamed, but internationalism affords little prospect of a solution, either.
All the world's ills will not be cured by consolidating small states into big empires. The trend during the last few decades has been the other way, as the crusade against "Colonialism" has led to the creation of dozens of small "republics" in Africa and across the Indian Ocean to the Southwest Pacific.

4. Latin America is in trouble, too. The "Alliance for Progress" hasn't really made progress.
Grants by our Government will not buy friendship. The way must be opened for private enterprise, but this cannot happen till governments take full responsibility for the protection of the lives and property of foreigners. The United States Government has abandoned this policy in relation to Cuba, and there is no assurance that it will not be forsaken everywhere else in Latin America, too.

5. Troubles in Africa multiply.

Whites kill blacks and blacks kill whites. The United Nations enters the killing, too, as it sends its armies to "preserve order" and force factions to unite. But this assumes a basic ability and a readiness of the backward peoples to govern themselves. To have applied the trusteeship idea and to have depended on gradual evolution would have been a better formula.

6. Moscow is fishing in troubled waters everywhere. Its agents are stirring up violence in the "demonstrations" in various countries.
Students and trained leaders are paid to foment friction. This is something that needs exposure.

7. Berlin's "Wall" remains as a symbol of Soviet trouble-making in the supposedly post-war world.

Never Compelled to Report
8. The Soviets furnished arms and ammunition to the North Koreans and Red Chinese to start a big war in Korea, but they have never been compelled by world opinion to repent their violation of the charter of the United Nations.
Cowardice or timidity or expediency—whatever the right word is—may be the reason the U.N. has never lived up to its responsibilities.
The organization today presents a sorry example of inconsistency and disregard of principles.

Even in our own internal affairs there is little sunshine, as costly strikes shut down newspapers and inflict hardships on millions of innocent bystanders.
Yet we don't hear the words "public interest" used as a reason for breaking up labor monopolies, though this phrase was used by the President not so long ago to crack down on some big companies.

Is there an answer? Only in enlightening public opinion steadily and persistently. For, in our own country, policies waver from flabbiness to firmness and then back again. Political expediency rules the day. A humiliating subservience to pressure groups prevails and powerful blocs still buy elections for the political demogogues.

Capital Needs Peace Corps

Last but not least, America sends its Peace Corps to other lands but needs a Peace Corps approach in its National Capital, where discipline in the integrated public schools has broken down—according to the superintendent of schools —and where crime is rampant, as even Congressmen are held up and robbed within a few blocks of the Capitol Building itself.

Will the sunshine ever come back? Not while even governments in democracies are reluctant to stand by historic principles of justice in the conflicts of mankind.

The sunshine will come some day — but only when facts are faced squarely and the rules of fair dealing and simple honesty are really recognized in the affairs of men.

To Honor Greene Scout Veteran at Leeds Saturday

Harold C. Bender of RD Hanacroix has attained the status of a 40-year veteran in the Boy Scouts of America, it was announced today by Clifford A. Henze of Hurley, president of the Rip Van Winkle Council. The Boy Scout Council will recognize Bender for his long service to boyhood through Scouting at the Mohican Trail District Scout-O-Rama to be held at the new State Armory in Leeds Saturday. Henze said that the Council will present to Bender a distinctive Scouting pin indicating his many years of service in Scouting. The presentation will take place during the evening arena show at 7:30 o'clock. Bender has received a letter from Joseph A. Brunton Jr., Chief Scout Executive, who wrote, "I know you rejoice with me in the great gains Scouting has made since its humble beginning. You must have many happy memories of associations during your years of service, and countless boys have benefited from your work." Bender replied: "It has given me great satisfaction to know and see boys grow into strong young men. I know that many boys' lives have been strengthened and enriched by their Scouting experiences. I have enjoyed my many years in Scouting and know that others can find much pleasure in working with and for the boys of our area." Bender began in Scouting in 1923 as a Boy Scout in Troop 80 of Brooklyn. As a boy he attained the rank of Life Scout. As a volunteer leader he qualified for the Scoutmaster's Key while Scoutmaster of Troop 42 in Greenville. He has been active in the past as a member of the Commissioner Staff of the former Northern District, and is presently serving as an assistant scoutmaster with Troop 42 of Greenville. He has two sons in the Scouting program—Harold, who is a Cub Scout in Pack 42 of Greenville and Arthur, who is a member of Troop 42. Bender has taken part in National Scout Jamboree, as a leader, in 1953 in California, in 1957 in Valley Forge, and in 1960 in Colorado. In 1955 he was awarded the Silver Beaver by the Rip Van Winkle Council, for distinguished service to boyhood.

RICE SUPPLY AND DISTRIBUTION

JUST ABOUT AVERAGE—U.S. rice supply for 1962-63 is estimated at 70.1 million hundredweight, rough rice equivalent. (The 1963 bars on chart are estimates.) This is 8 per cent above the figure for a year ago, but comes pretty close to the 1956-1960 average. Exports, at an estimated 32.0 million cwt., would be about 10 per cent above those in 1961-62. Carry-over at end of the 1962-63 marketing year may total about 9.0 million cwt. Data: figured on marketing year beginning in August, as compiled by Department of Agriculture.

South Avoids Danger Cards

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

North's two-club response is the Stayman convention which asks South to show a four-card major suit. South rebids two spades. North goes to two no-trump and, with a full 17-point

no-trump plus two tens, South is delighted to go on to game.

West opens the queen of clubs and as anyone can see that suit is the enemy. South lets the queen of clubs hold. There is nothing to fear from a shift. He wins the club continuation and notes that he has to do something about both the ace of spades and king of hearts in order to take the nine tricks he has contracted for.

Peter Leventritt of New York

Card School points out that the ace of spades is the only real danger, since the king of hearts will be a trick only if East holds

it. Therefore, South should go right after the ace of spades.

He leads a spade toward dummy's queen and continues the suit until West plays his ace.

West will lead another club to knock out South's last stopper,

but now South can take the heart trick with safety, because East has no more clubs.

East will make his king, but will have to lead back a diamond, whereupon South will play the ace and wind up with three tricks in each major suit plus two clubs and one diamond for the total of nine as advertised.

Crackers are crisper and fresher, too, when a square of four is placed in the toaster a few seconds before serving.

Dutchess College Head to Address Quality Control

DR. JAMES F. HALL

Guest speaker for the Mid-Hudson Section of the American Society for Quality Control will be Dr. James F. Hall, president of Dutchess Community College. Dr. Hall will discuss Education and the Community College Tuesday, Feb. 12 at the Beekman Arms Hotel, Rhinebeck. Dinner is scheduled for 7 p. m.

Prior to becoming president of the Dutchess college, Dr. Hall was dean of the Collegiate Technical Division of Ferris Institute where he also served as assistant to the president. Dr. Hall previously was a department head and director of Student Personnel Services at Orange County Community College and Administrative Assistant at New York City Community College.

Dr. Hall, prior to his Naval service in World War II, attended the University of Michigan. He received his Bachelor and Master's Degrees from Wayne State University and his Doctorate from Columbia University.

Dr. Hall was asked to speak again to the Mid-Hudson Section of the American Society for Quality Control after his stimulating discussion of last year.

Snow Removal Issue Discussed By Town Board

The regular February meeting of the Rosendale Town Board was held on Monday evening at the Town Clerk's Office. All members were present.

Town Superintendent of Highways George Bocklemann requested that a telephone be installed in the new Town Garage and no decision was made on this request. He also asked what obligation the town had in plowing snow on the streets in the village of Rosendale. He was informed that the town had renewed a contract for five years with the village, last June, whereby the town was to plow the snow on village streets and pay one half of the cost of maintaining the village dump for use of the dump by residents of the town. He was also informed that the town board had no authority over his work.

Mr. Bocklemann requested a new jeep truck to replace the Ford pick-up now being used by the town and he was asked to bring in recommendations to the board for a new truck.

Supervisor George Mollenhauer presented bills for the amount of $422.17 for repairs to the Walter truck last December and a bill for plowing snow for $237.50 in 1962. A debt of 1962 against a fund having insufficient balance at the end of the year cannot legally be paid from 1963 monies in said fund, but the town can legally make payment to remove this debt only from a transferable fund with sufficient balance at the end of 1962. There was a balance from the general fund in 1962 and transfers will be made to the machinery and miscellaneous funds to pay these bills.

Ferdinand Fiedler, chairman of the assessors reported on a conference with the assessors at Albany and spoke on values and appraisals of property. He reported that all values had increased each year and are now very high. Towns are advised to have their assessments re-appraised but this is very expensive and there is proposed legislation to help towns pay for the cost of re-appraisal.

Mr. Fiedler reported unless the town can get a rating of 25 per cent there will be no relief in taxes. The present rate is 11 per cent.

A resolution was passed to correct an error of $4,575 in the 1963 budget for the planning board which was entered in error. The State Board of Audit and Control recommends that the money be deposited in the Rosendale Bank, and this money and interest to be applied to reduce the highway tax in the 1964 budget.

Two residents of Tillson were present and complained of many large dogs running at large, pushing over children, scaring many of the small youngsters. They said parents are afraid that some youngster will be hurt. This brought on a long discussion but no action was taken.

Tillson residents also asked for another constable in the Tillson section and John Codington was recommended and appointed by the board. Mr. Codington has accepted and has qualified for the office.

Dance Canceled

Ernest Hopper, director of recreation for the Town of Rosendale announces that there will be no teenage dance this Friday. The next dance will be held Feb. 15.

Along Capitol Corridors

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Moreland Act Commission that investigated public-welfare operations at the direction of Gov. Rockefeller reached several of the same conclusions recommended by a legislative study two years ago.

Both studies recommended tightening the top leadership structure of the Social Welfare Department, taking the job of local welfare commissioner out of politics, relieving case workers of paper work and steps to attract and retain qualified personnel.

The earlier study was made at the direction of the Legislature in 1960 at a cost of $50,000. A management consultant firm hired to make the actual investigation produced a two-volume report in Jan. 1961.

But, while sharp criticism of welfare procedures had been voiced in the Legislature, few extensive changes were made.

But public welfare became the center of a national furor centered in New York State the following spring, when the city of Newburgh adopted a plan designed to curb mounting welfare costs.

The courts eventually declared most of the plan illegal and it was dropped. But the debate over welfare continued.

Rockefeller then appointed the Moreland Act Commission. Its recommendations differed in some details from equivalent proposals in the legislative investigation, possibly because of the political opposition encountered two years ago.

Here are comparisons of some of the findings and recommendations of the two reports:

Legislative — "Despite repeated cataloging of (welfare) problems and solutions, the coordinated leadership needed for remedial action has apparently been lacking. It is therefore believed that strong leadership from the State's Chief Executive is the only means of securing corrective and coordinated action."

Moreland — "The present division of policy-making and administrative authority between the state Board of Social Welfare and the state commissioner creates confusions as to which . . . should exert constructive leadership. The present system also removes the governor from direct responsibility for welfare operations."

Legislative — (Recommendation) "Minimum qualification standards for local commissioners of public welfare would be developed. . . thereafter, local governing bodies would provide for the appointment of local commissioners meeting these minimum qualifications for set terms. . . (Most local welfare commissioners now are elective officials.)"

Moreland — "New York is the only state in which local welfare commissioners do not have to meet minimum qualifications. . . We recommend that qualifications for the position of local commissioner be established. . . We favor the appointment of local commissioners, rather than election, but whatever the method of selection, it is imperative that standards of qualifications be established."

83rd Division Is Again Conducting Hunt for Members

The 83rd Infantry Division again is conducting an extensive search for some 30,000 of its former members.

That number, according to Victor E. Landis, third vice-president and publicity director, is the total of men on the division roster not contacted since the end of World War II. These men are scattered all over the nation, including many from New York, Landis pointed out.

The jobs contacting the 30,000 veterans is particularly significant at this time of the year when plans are underway for the 17th annual convocation of the Thunderbolt Division. This year the sessions will be held in Indianapolis, Ind., from Aug. 15-17. Hotel headquarters will be at the Claypool.

Returning to Indianapolis will be like old home week for the 83rd veterans. The division was reactivated in August 1942 at Camp Atterbury, near Indianapolis, and the division spent a year of training at that site.

All former members of the 83rd are urged to contact Harry Lockwood, national secretary, 43 Oakland Avenue, Jersey City, N. J.

Westminster Has 1st Face-Lifting
In 900-Year Time

By MILTON MARMOR

LONDON (AP) — Centuries of grime have disappeared in Westminster Abbey's first face-lifting in 900 years.

A great change has come over the interior of the Church of England edifice where Britain's kings and queens are crowned.

Stephen Dykes-Bower, architect who holds the title of surveyor of the fabric, is in charge of maintaining the abbey.

Radiant Now

He says: "The view of the abbey on entering the west door is no longer one of somber gloom, but of lightness and radiance—a symphony of white stone, gray marble, gilding and color."

The newly cleared ceiling of the nave is one of the most delightful surprises for a visitor.

The major portion of the abbey dates to 1245 and some sections go back to 1065. All the inside stones are the original ones.

People seeing the walls today are seeking them as they must have looked more than 700 years ago.

Haven't Got Money

"We'd love to clean the outside, but we just haven't got the money," said Dykes-Bower. The inside cleaning, over a period of 12 years, is costing about a million dollars.

The interior has scaffolding and dust cloths strewn about. Already the great carved ceiling dazzles the ribs of vaults are outlined with gold leaf, and marble piers gleam.

Scrubbing, gold-leafing and painting will go on until the 900th anniversary celebration Dec. 28, 1965.

Washing is done with soap and water. Three powerful suction machines collect dust.

Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Beef, pork, lamb and poultry are among bargains for grocery shoppers this weekend. Eggs are turning lower and several canned seafood items are tagged at special prices.

Vegetable counters are beginning to reflect recovery from the winter freezes. Cucumbers, sweet corn, cabbage and lettuce are returning to normal price levels.

Citrus fruits, both canned and fresh, are still high and, as likely as not, will climb yet higher as old inventories are replaced. But bananas, scarce during the dock strike, avocados, pears, grapes and apples are in ample supply.

A wide variety of beef cuts carry bargain tags, as heavy supplies exert pressure on prices. Beef ribs tumbled as much as 5 cents a pound in some San Francisco markets.

Pork bargains are also varied, with bacon and sausage particularly attractive in some areas. Lamb legs, roasts and shoulder are widely featured over the Eastern half of the nation.

Broiler-fryers continue to rank among bargains, and baking hens are economy-priced in the Southeast.

Eggs have begun their seasonal decline.

Chief seafood items are canned salmon, Maine sardines and tuna.

ICCE to Meet

The next meeting of the New Paltz Independent Citizens Committee on Education will be held at the Town Hall Feb. 14 at 8 p. m.

An ICCE committee is currently studying the possibility of raising school funds other than by real estate taxes.

Any interested organization may send a delegate to the meeting.

Dental Study Club Gives Answers on Care of Teeth

This is the first in a series of questions and answers on dental health published by the Kingston Daily Freeman in cooperation with the Ulster-Greene Dental Study Club in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week through February 9.

Is it really worth the effort to keep my own teeth? Aren't artificial dentures just as good?

During the average lifetime, a person consumes some 38 tons of food. That is enough to provide a banquet for a capacity crowd at Madison Square Garden and for all of the guests at the world's three largest hotels. Most of that food has to be chewed; chewing is the chief purpose for which you need your teeth.

Sound, healthy teeth also are essential to your appearance and for proper speech.

While artificial dentures usually are attractive and function adequately, they are not just as good as your own teeth, any more than an artificial hand is just as good as your own hand.

My neighbor told me her dentist says that teeth can last a lifetime. Is this possible?

Yes, it is possible. Teeth are designed to last a lifetime. You and your children can keep your own teeth if you conscientiously follow the rules of preventive dentistry.

The first thing to be recognized is that teeth require daily care if they are to remain in good health. This means eating a balanced diet low in sweets and always brushing your teeth immediately after eating. In addition, it is important that you visit your dentist regularly so that any dental problems that do develop can be taken care of promptly.

Children who, from birth, drink water containing 1 part per million fluoride have up to 60 per cent less decay than might otherwise develop. Where the water is not fluoridated, topical applications of fluoride are of value in helping to prevent decay.

I am now 30 years old and have never had any wisdom teeth. Is this unusual?

No, it is not too unusual. Twenty-five per cent of the people never get third molars. Incidentally, whether or not you have wisdom teeth has nothing to do with how wise you are. The custom of calling the third molars wisdom teeth apparently arose just because the teeth appear late, usually from the 17th to the 22nd year.

What is the relationship between nutrition and dental health?

In general, if you eat the kind of diet recommended for general health, you'll be getting the essentials for dental health.

During the years the teeth are being formed (from about 5 months before birth to the age of 8 years), an adequate supply of calcium and phosphorus is needed for hardening of the tooth structure. Once the teeth are fully formed and calcified, the enamel does not need any more calcium and cannot absorb any. The gums and the bones of the jaws must have the same nourishment throughout life as the other tissues of the body.

While a good diet does play a part in the development of sound, healthy teeth, only fluorides have been proved to help develop decay-resistant teeth.

As far as preventing tooth decay is concerned, what you do eat is perhaps less important in preventing tooth decay than what you don't eat, provided what you don't eat is sweets.

What Causes Tooth Decay?

Various studies that have been made indicate that bacteria always present in the mouth act on fermentable carbohydrates, especially sugar, to form acids. The acids attack the enamel of the teeth. Eventually these acid attacks result in decay.

No way has yet been found of removing bacteria permanently from the mouth, although brushing temporarily decreases the number of bacteria. But sugar can be eliminated—or at least the amount that is eaten can be reduced. The teeth of those who eat sweet snacks frequently during the day are subjected to almost continuous acid attacks.

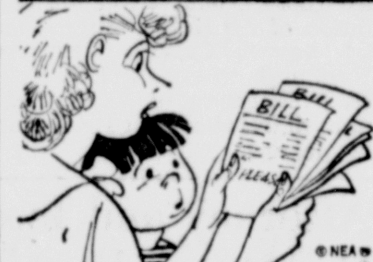

Brushing immediately after eating does help to remove some of the sugar before it is converted to acid. When brushing is not possible, the mouth should at least be rinsed with clear water.

How Should I Brush My Teeth?

Your dentist can tell you the best method of tooth-brushing for you. Three good general rules are:

1. Brush immediately after eating.
2. Brush each area at least ten times—the surfaces next to the cheeks and next to the tongue and the upper and lower chewing surfaces.
3. Brush the upper teeth down toward the biting edge and the lower teeth up toward the biting edge.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The money market in the United States—the supply of lendable funds, demand from borrowers, interest rates—has been stable so long that some take its steadiness for granted.

But the rising federal deficit and the new look in important foreign investment and trade markets leads some bankers today to wonder how much longer this will last.

Few Expect Such Change

Many others say it would take a really strong upsurge in business activity to crimp the supply of funds enough to send interest rates up. And few think any such change is in the making.

Still others count on the money managers—the U. S. Treasury and the Federal Reserve Board—to work together to keep the financial markets generally easy. That is, they will supply just enough money and credit to handle the ups and downs of demand.

But sudden outside forces often have upset the best laid plans. And any radical change in the U. S. trade and investment relations with Europe—both the Inner Six of the Common Market and the Outer Seven headed by tilted Britain—could increase the stubborn balance of payments deficit enough to force new financial measures to protect the value of the dollar and the U. S. gold reserves. And these moves could include higher costs for borrowing.

And if the prospective larger Treasury deficits in the next two or three years set off a sudden boom in industrial production and business expansion—or even the moderate advance the administration expects—the demand for funds could rise sharply.

This would reverse the trend of 1962 when demand fluctuated seasonally but always below the supply of funds. And this in turn could reverse the slow downward drift in the cost of long-term financing during 1962.

What will come out of the exclusion of Britain from the Common Market is still largely in the guessing stage. Its effect on American trade and overseas investment, or on the flight of U. S. investment funds to or from Europe, could affect the American dollar and domestic interest rates. But how much, if any, can't be foretold at this time.

The prospect for big U. S. Treasury deficits, however, is pretty concrete. How they are financed will bear on interest rates all up and down the line, from short term loans to long term mortgages. And the financing will have a bearing on the outlook for prices as well as for the chances of economic growth the administration seeks.

Modena

MODENA—A meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Modena Fire Department will be held Wednesday 8 p. m. in the firehouse.

Any woman in the community, interested in social activities of the fire department, may attend these meetings, and join the organization.

The Modena Fire Department will meet Thursday 8 p. m. at the firehouse.

The Modena Rod and Gun Club will meet Friday 8 p. m. at the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. Weather permitting, finishing touches will be made to the new clubhouse, under construction, north of Modena. Donations of cooking utensils, kitchen equipment, including towels, will be appreciated by the firemen, for future use in their new meeting place.

Mrs. May Coy, Mr. and Mrs. Vernooy Coy of Poughkeepsie, visited Mrs. Fred Bernard and family, Friday. Mrs. May Coy remained for a weekend visit with her sister, Mrs. Bernard.

Mrs. James Doyle of Delmar, the former Alice Felter of Modena, is a sister surviving Alpheus Charles Felter, 66, of Monroe, who died Jan. 31, at St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, after a long illness.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Lee Moore, Polkahoe Drive, North Tarrytown were Sunday callers in the village center on their way home from a weekend of skiing in the mountains. Mrs. Lee is the former Nancy Cooper of Town of Woodstock.

Also here recently was August May who with his wife and younger children now occupy their new home in the Glenford area. A son, Roger, who was with the Army in Germany, is currently stationed at Fort Benning, Ga. A younger son, Dennis is with an overseas unit near Frankfurt, Germany.

Fishing through the ice is a popular winter pastime up at Halcottville where both bullheads and suckers are being caught in great number.

Harriet VandenBerghe, Columbiaville, in a communication for this column reports that her sister, Daisy Davis, was transferred, Dec. 29, from Rome, N. Y. to Foxhall Avenue Nursing Home, Kingston. Mrs. Davis, a former resident of Olive, has made her home in the upstate city for the past 17 years.

Thousands of skiers passed through the twin villages over Route 28 during the weekend. Each season the influx appears to grow larger as additional trails are developed in Delaware and Greene Counties.

Albert North who sold his Route 28-A home to the Lynch family reportedly is residing in Hurley.

Half a century ago in the Ashokan country: February, 1913, Henry Sagendorf who died last Dec. 19 at his Beechford home, was a good neighbor and had many friends. Funeral services conducted by the Rev. Henry Brink, local Dutch Reformed minister. He is survived by his wife; a daughter, Carrie Hendrickson, and several brothers and sisters. Jan. 24, Mrs. Albert Quick and Ethel Roosa, Tongore, attended a teachers conference at Brown Station. Jan. 27, Death took place at her home in Beechford of Elizabeth Winne who was in her 77th year. Funeral Jan. 30, was largely attended.

Polaris A3 Sub Missile Scores First Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The advanced A3 model of the Polaris submarine missile scored its first success in seven test launchings today on an 1,800-mile strike down the Atlantic tracking range.

The flight was the first for the bullet-shaped projectile since the range safety officer failed in an attempt on Dec. 6 to blow up one of the rockets when it shot off course.

The trouble then was traced to a weak electrical signal which failed to trigger the explosive destruction charges in the missile. Engineers have modified the electrical system.

A Navy official reported no sign of trouble today and added he hoped the success marked the end of difficulties for the A3's early development phase. Five of the six failures were caused by second stage problems, all unrelated.

Meeting on Soil Tillage Planned At Paltz High

The "second edition" of "Virtues and Evils of Soil Tillage" will be held Tuesday, Feb. 12, at 8 p. m. at New Paltz High School, Robert D. Guzewich, Associate Ulster County Agricultural Agent, announced today.

This past winter Professors Hugh Wilson, Agronomist, and Carl Winkelblech, Agricultural Engineer, discussed soil tillage from the standpoint of costs per acre, chemicals to replace cultivators and selection of equipment. They will again be present next Tuesday to give the rest of the story as many local farmers have requested.

Topics will include secondary tillage, soils, and moisture limitations, traction and compaction relationships, deep vs. shallow plowing.

Dairymen are moving more to corn silage and are asking "can I grow corn and a continuous crop?" That answer will be given and many more tillage problems in this illustrated discussion will be answered.

Killed Crossing Street

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Stella Wylupski, 52, of Buffalo, was killed today when hit by an automobile while crossing an icy street on the city's east side.

Administration Breaks With Tradition

Trade Secrets Are Unveiled In Video Report on Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—In its effort to document its case on Cuba, the administration broke with cloak-and-dagger tradition and unveiled some trade secrets of jet age spying.

In their living rooms, television viewers got a look at the kind of intelligence briefing usually seen only behind guarded doors of the Pentagon and State Department.

Designed to Counter Claims

Obviously, the news conference late Wednesday on Soviet military strength in Cuba was put together to counter congressional claims that the Soviet buildup was bigger and a greater hazard than the Kennedy administration has admitted.

Secretary of defense Robert S. McNamara put it this way:

"We are dealing with very sensitive matters... we considered it so important to expose to you the extent of our knowledge that we have done so, even at the risk of degrading our intelligence capability. It is always a fine line to draw between the release of information that is in the public interest on the one hand and the maintenance of security of our intelligence collection efforts on the other."

The two-hour briefing by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and John T. Hughes, special assistant to Gen. Joseph Carroll, director of the Pentagon's Defense Intelligence Agency, was remarkable for several reasons.

Usually Blanketed

One was the detailed photographs, projected on a 12-foot high screen. Another was that it revealed intelligence collecting methods still being used. Traditionally, a spy operation is blanketed in secrecy for many years.

Some of the photographs were made at high altitudes (perhaps above 60,000 feet). Others were low, one described as low as 600 feet.

One of the dramatic photographs caught the stark shadow of the camera plane as it flashed across a harbor area at 600 miles per hour—low, low down.

It was obvious that all of the intelligence didn't come from aerial reconnaissance. McNamara touched obliquely on the usually hush-hush work of agents and informers, usually refugees in the latter case.

He commented that several thousand reports come in each month on material and personnel moving into Cuba, all of it analyzed and evaluated.

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Roberts, Analyst for AP

NEW YORK (AP)—John M. (J.M.) Roberts, Associated Press news analyst and columnist, died Wednesday night at his home in Kew Gardens, Queens, of a heart attack. He was 60.

Roberts was on The Associated Press staff for 32 years.

He was foreign editor in the early forties, during World War II. Since 1947, he had written his daily column, "Interpreting The News." His last column, written Wednesday, appeared in this morning's newspapers. It dealt with Britain's attempt to offset the effects of the exclusion from the European Common Market.

Roberts was city editor of the Charlotte (N.C.) Observer before joining The Associated Press in 1931. Prior to that, he had worked on the Durham (N.C.) Herald and the Asheville (N.C.) Citizen.

One of his biggest stories with The AP was a 24-hour beat on the German invasion of Holland in May 1940. The story was based on a tip from Hendrik Van Loon, the historian.

After World War II, Roberts also covered the start of the Marshall Plan program in Europe.

Roberts was born in Elkton, Ky. His mother, Margaret Roberts, was nationally known in literary circles as the teacher whose novel, "Thomas Wolfe" described as the mother of his spirit.

Roberts attended Davidson College and the University of North Carolina.

Surviving are his widow Vera, and a daughter, Mrs. Raymond H. Palmer of Greensboro, N.C. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Tighter Rule Is Beaten in Senate On Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate's big battle over a new anti-filibuster rule ended today in defeat for those wanting a tighter rule.

On a test vote, backers of a new rule mustered 54 votes to 42 for the opposition.

This vote was on a motion to limit debate on the question of formally taking up a rule change.

Next, the Senate voted 64-33 to adjourn, a parliamentary step that wiped out the whole rules fight that had gripped the Senate since Congress assembled Jan. 9.

Onondaga Favored To Operate Channel 9

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hearing examiner recommended today that the Federal Communications Commission authorize Onondaga Broadcasting Inc. to operate a television station on Channel 9 in Syracuse, N.Y.

At the same time, Examiner David I. Kraushaar recommended the denial of eight other applications for the same channel.

The television station began operation last Sept. 9 under a unique interim arrangement whereby 10 applicants agreed to work together until one was given permanent assignment of the channel. One of the applicants later withdrew.

The station is affiliated with the American Broadcasting Company.

None of Charges Disputed: Keating

Much of Steam Is Gone From Rumpus on Cuba

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The rumpus over the size and kind of Soviet forces in Cuba lost much, if not all, of its steam today after the Kennedy administration took unprecedented steps to answer its severest critic on the issue.

Of first concern to Americans was the answer to this question: Are the Soviet forces in Cuba a threat to the United States?

Two-Hour Evidence

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said no. To prove his case he made a two-hour television presentation late Wednesday, photographs and all, as evidence this country through aerial watch keeps a constant check on doings inside Cuba.

But Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., who had been charging the Russians were keeping offensive bases in Cuba, said McNamara had disputed none of his charges.

However, Keating had toned down some of them in an interview with The Associated Press published Wednesday in advance of the McNamara presentation. He agreed he doesn't think the Soviet weapons are poised against the United States or that an invasion is a threat.

Backs Down From Statement

And in the interview he backed down from a statement he made only a week ago that there is "continuing absolutely confirmed and undeniable evidence the Soviets are maintaining" the missile bases involved in last October's Cuban crisis with Premier Khrushchev.

He conceded in the interview that he was not talking about hard bases for intermediate range missiles. He said he knows those bases have been broken up.

But it was precisely those bases and those missiles, capable of hitting almost anywhere in the United States, which were involved last fall when Khrushchev backed down and pulled the missiles out.

Next question: Are the Soviet weapons of the kind that could be used for offensive purposes at all?

Still a Threat: Keating

Again McNamara said no. And, when he said that, he included Soviet tanks, planes and certain kinds of missiles of very short range. He said the planes could not be used for bombing to back up an invasion.

He said "I am satisfied there are no offensive weapons in Cuba."

The most Keating could say on this was that he thinks the men and weapons present a threat.

Next question: Could the Soviet forces in Cuba, men and weapons, be an invasion threat to any Latin-American country? If they couldn't be an invasion threat they could hardly be any threat at all.

Once more McNamara said no. He gave his reason: That Fidel Castro doesn't have the kind of shipping necessary to move the Soviet equipment from Cuba to any other country.

Keating was very cautious on this one. He said he thinks the Soviet forces in Cuba are forming the "base of operations in other Latin-American countries." He said there were still bases in Cuba for missiles with a range of 1,000 miles.

(McNamara denied this. He said the only ground-to-ground missiles in Cuba will go less than 30 miles.)

But—Keating said he doesn't think it possible to launch a great invasion from Cuba against some Latin-American country although "it is possible to get personnel from Cuba to other Latin-American countries without our knowledge."

What then is left of Keating's warnings and misgivings about the Soviet men and arms in Cuba? Not much. He said the Soviets have at least 20,000 men in Cuba. McNamara said they did once have 22,000 but now have only 17,000 and that only 5,000 of them are in combat units.

Before McNamara went on the air the American intelligence chief, John A. McCone, gave senators a fill-in. Some of them later said the problem was "critical" or of "concern." That was before McNamara talked.

Last August Keating began warning of a Soviet buildup in Cuba. The Kennedy administration minimized his warnings then.

But the buildup was real, as the administration found out, and admitted later in its showdown with Khrushchev.

Over-Inflated Argument

This time—as before—Keating has offered no proof but this time his argument looks over-inflated. Soviet weapons and arms, so long as they stay in Cuba will be a problem. But that's a long way from being a danger or threat.

But, if Keating accomplished nothing else, he pushed the administration into doing something brand new in American history: Defending itself for two hours on television and even showing aerial pictures it took of Cuba. This is the end may work against the U.S. intelligence efforts.

McNamara said on the air: "We considered it so important to expose to you the extent of our knowledge that we have done so, even at the risk of degrading our intelligence capability."

'Pygmalion' Is Beautifully Acted Wednesday Night

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—"Pygmalion," George Bernard Shaw's saucy period piece about making a lady out of Eliza Doolittle, was a beautifully acted and produced valentine from NBC to the nation Wednesday night.

Miss Julie Harris, who seems perfect playing everything from a young girl to an ancient queen, was marvelous as the suspicious cockney flower girl caught up reluctantly in an experiment in phonetics. She was beautiful as the finished product—an English lady.

James Donald, as rude Professor Henry Higgins, invested his part with the casual brutality of Leslie Howard, instead of the wispishness Rex Harrison gave him.

As in all the "Hall of Fame" programs, the 90-minute adaptation of the Shaw classic was notable for effective, subtle use of color. The ballroom scene was gorgeous.

Shifts Are Coming

This season's unenthusiastic reception of the prime-time evening schedules of both NBC and ABC is expected to result in a drastic plowing up for next year which will uproot almost 50 percent of the current crop and mean shifts in time spots for many of the others.

Some of the reshuffling under consideration involves ABC's "Wagon Train," perhaps lengthening it to 90 minutes and moving it out of head-on collision with NBC's "The Virginian."

Jack Paar's hour is expected to shift to Thursday night, "Ben Casey" to Wednesdays and Mitch Miller to Mondays. And that's just the beginning. A number of old favorites may disappear, including "Dobie Gillis" and "Dennis the Menace," and along with more recent entries like "Sam Benedict."

A shift in ABC scheduling which is closer at hand involves slipping re-runs of the old "Cheyenne Show" at the head of its Friday evening schedule. That starts April 12, when the Winston Churchill series of reruns is finished.

Chief Reason

Chief reasons for both sides sending large armies into North Africa and Italy during World War II was that control of the Mediterranean Sea was deemed necessary to victory.

10 Frogs Keep Things Hopping On Air Flight

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Ten frogs, that escaped from the box in which they were being shipped, kept things hopping aboard a Mohawk Airlines plane.

The plane had just left Syracuse Wednesday on a flight from Buffalo to Boston when stewardess Dottie Pratt, 21, of Erie, Pa., was handed a bag by a passenger and told there were three frogs in it.

"I opened the bag, and what do you know," said Miss Pratt. "There was this big frog looking at me."

With the encouragement of the 40 human passengers on the plane, Miss Pratt began what was probably the first airborne frog hunt in history. The last frog was rounded up "over Providence," she said.

They were part of a shipment of 80 sent by the J. R. Schettler Frog Farm Inc. of Stillwater, Minn., to C. H. Mumley of Alburgh, Vt. Mumley said he sold about 100,000 frogs a year to medical and research centers for scientific purposes.

Recreated Horseroom Results in Mistrial

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — When city police recreated their version of a raided horseroom during a recess in a gambling trial, the judge declared a mistrial.

Four telephones were placed on two tables Wednesday in City Court, along with a number of racing forms and half-smoked cigarettes.

Judge Joseph A. Sedita agreed with defense attorneys that the display was prejudicial, and said he would set a new trial date in two weeks.

There are an estimated 5 million hay fever sufferers in the United States.

Park, Playground Proposed

Must Guide the Future Growth of Second Ward

This is the sixth of a series of articles on neighborhood plans in conjunction with the city's master plan.

Most of the residential growth possible in Neighborhood No. 6, the Second Ward, has taken place, and it is proposed to attempt to control existing development and guide the remaining growth potential into desirable residential patterns. Park and playground development is proposed for the area and clearance of a small blighted area in the vicinity of Bruyn Avenue and Cornell Street "prompts serious consideration" for clearance.

The report: N-No. 6 holds within its boundaries a wide range of uses. A well maintained section of one and two-family residences on moderately sized lots is generally bounded by Tremper Avenue, O'Neil Street, Wiltwyck Avenue, and Albany Avenue. A newer residential section of one-family homes is bounded by Albany Avenue, Manor Avenue, Kiersted Avenue, and the north-eastern city line. Mixed use development appears only on the fringes of these two sections of N-No. 6.

Broadway, the western neighborhood boundary, and the eastern portions of Albany Avenue are major commercial areas of the city, but hold some residential uses. Neighborhood commercial needs are served by a few operations south of Albany Avenue.

Not Always Beneficial

Large industrial developments are located in the vicinity of the railroad and Cornell Street. Their expansion has influenced adjoining areas of residential development. The influences have not always been beneficial to the residents.

The area, northwest of Albany Avenue and Manor Avenue is undeveloped due to its vulnerability to flooding from the Esopus Creek.

N-No. 6 suffered a population decline of 2.2 per cent between 1950-1960; and as of the 1960 date contained 4,438 persons.

Housing conditions in N-No. 6 were the best of any neighborhood in the city in 1960. Only 2.4 per cent of the housing was either dilapidated (0.4 per cent) or deteriorating (2.0 per cent).

Most of the residential growth possible in N-No. 6 has taken place. It is proposed to attempt to control existing development and guide the remaining growth potential into desirable residential patterns. The residential area south of Albany Avenue is recommended to be two and three-family residence; north of Albany Avenue is proposed as a one-family area. Development under this suggested plan would allow for 800 additional persons, or an ultimate total of 5,200.

It is desirable to divert through traffic from some of N-No. 6's streets to preserve their good residential assets. Though this will be developed further in a city street and circulation plan, it is recommended at the intersections of Bruyn Avenue and Downs Street and Tremper Avenue and O'Neil Street.

Recommendations

The Broadway and Albany Avenue area is proposed as Commercial; but it is further proposed that the area between the rear property lines on Broadway and the railroad be general commercial.

It is recommended that the entire area between the rear lines on the south side of O'Neil Street and the railroad be developed for industrial uses. This industrial zone should further extend along the railroad to the city line.

The establishment of a limited office or multi-family residence area is proposed along the south side of Albany Avenue, extending from Broadway to Manor Avenue.

There are two existing recreation facilities serving Neighborhood No. 6. One small one is at School No. 6 and an eight-acre park, reserved as possible future school site.

Facilities at School No. 6 should be expanded to include a neighborhood park-playground. The eight-acre Loughran Park should be developed in the future neighborhood park-playground.

The specialized Little League facility on Kiersted Avenue provides another limited outlet. The flood plain area could be developed for recreation use, after necessary detailed engineering studies.

Though the best housing conditions of any in the city exist in N-No. 6, there is a small blighted area in the vicinity of Bruyn Avenue and Cornell Street. The blight, as well as the areas location among industrial uses prompts serious consideration for their clearance.

Strict enforcement of newly proposed codes will be necessary in the residential area south of Albany Avenue to prevent inadequate conversions, leading to overcrowded and deficient housing.

Gotham Man Injured, Is Issued Summons

Maurice Goldman, 55, of 135 West 79th Street, New York City suffered fractured ribs and kidney injury Wednesday about 1 p. m. when his car, traveling north on Route 9W at Ulster Park was in collision with a car operated by Leslie Mott, 73, of Esopus. Mott was traveling south.

State police at Highland reported Goldman was following a van, also traveling south. The van made a left turn after putting on the directional lights and the Goldman car skidded to the south bound lane and there was a collision with the Mott car. Goldman was issued a summons to appear Feb. 22 before Justice of the Peace John O. Beaver of Town of Esopus to answer to a charge of following another vehicle too close.

Goldman was taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance service.

NEWS FOR COMMUTERS—Stencil duplicators pour out miniature newspapers free at both Grand Central and Penn stations during the news strike in New York City, listing important local and international happenings and quotes from popular feature writers and syndicated columnists. Cooperating in the project are executives of the two railroad stations, Transportation Displays Incorporated, the New York Journal American and Gestetner Corporation of Yonkers, which contributes the stencil duplicators. Preparation of the newspaper is done exactly as it might be for photo offset. The duplicators closely resemble printing presses.

Tragedy Again Mars Visit of Royal Couple

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP)—Tragedy marred the visit of Queen Elizabeth II to New Zealand today, just as on her first visit in 1953.

A bus loaded with Maoris, returning from the welcome for the queen Wednesday night, plunged over a 130-foot bank and 15 of the aborigines were killed. There were 21 injured, some seriously.

On Dec. 24, 1953, while the then Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip were in Auckland, a train en route to Auckland plunged into a river and killed 200 persons. Many of those aboard were on their way to see the royal couple.

CANBERRA, Australia (AP)—The Australian government accused the first secretary of the Soviet Embassy today of elaborate preparations for espionage and gave him and his wife seven days to get out of the country.

Foreign Minister Sir Garfield Barwick announced that the diplomat, Ivan Fedorovich Skripov, has been declared persona non grata.

Barwick released 25 photographs which he said showed Skripov meeting a woman working for the Australian Security Intelligence Organization, a grave used as a hiding place for a package containing an unused but current Canadian passport, an unidentified man whose picture appeared on the passport and a radio message transmitter.

Barwick said the radio transmitter was the same type as one found in the London home of Morris Cohen, alias Kroger, and his wife, Helen, two Americans sentenced to 20 years in London in March 1961 for spying for the Soviet Union.

The foreign minister explained that the Australian woman employee photographed with Skripov was acting as a government agent.

Bishops to Stay Until Work Done, Pope on Council

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII has told the bishops of the Roman Catholic Church they must remain in Rome for the next session of the Vatican Ecumenical Council until they complete their work.

In a papal letter published today, the Pope also exhorted the prelates to make the council a means of achieving progress toward ultimate Christian unity.

The letter re-emphasized the Pope's determination to bring the council, which opened in Rome last Oct. 11, to a positive conclusion.

He recessed it on Dec. 8 for eight months, until Sept. 8. The Pope dispatched his 3,000-word letter to the bishops on Jan. 6, the feast of the Epiphany. It primarily concerned his thoughts on the work during the council recess of its various drafting commissions and its work at its next session.

They'll Bag 'em

Whiskers Could Pose Nuisance in Gemini Flights

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Astronauts will have to bag their whiskers after shaving on a spaceship—to prevent them from floating around the cabin and creating a fuzzy haze.

That's the word from Dr. Stanley C. White, a key scientist in the man-to-the-moon venture.

White says electric razors are being considered for use by astronauts because, for one thing, water will be at a premium. And, he says, with no water for a man-sized rinse, dried soap might irritate an astronaut's skin.

And unless corralled, he told a news conference Wednesday at the Space Medicine Symposium at Brooks Air Force Base, the shaved off whiskers—weightless, just like everything else aboard—would float around freely, creating at least a nuisance.

Other space buffs speculated that free-floating whiskers might even gum up the works in delicate electronic gear aboard the ship. Dr. White, of the space agency's manned spacecraft center, got into the celestial shaving discussion in relating plans for the personal hygiene and other care of astronauts who participate in the Gemini program.

That's the venture in which two-man crews will orbit the earth for periods up to two weeks as a prelude to the moon flight.

"Why shave at all on a space ship?" a newsman asked.

"Because the beard acts as a collector of debris and dead skin," said White, "they'll need to shave. But they must gather the whiskers and put them in some kind of a container."

Governor Desires State License Agencies for Jobs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller sought permission from the Legislature today for the state to take over licensing and supervision of employment agencies outside New York City.

He said the move was to provide more protection for women domestic workers imported from the South and from Latin America with exaggerated promises of good jobs.

The State Labor Department says this problem has been especially prevalent in the New York City suburban counties. Girls imported as domestics often are so unskilled that they are unable to hold good jobs and are set adrift to become a charge upon the community or to fall prey to vice rackets.

Under Rockefeller's proposal, the labor department would take over supervision of employment agencies in all 57 counties of the state outside New York City. Individual cities, towns and villages now have the responsibility.

Reductions Favored Of Planted Acreages

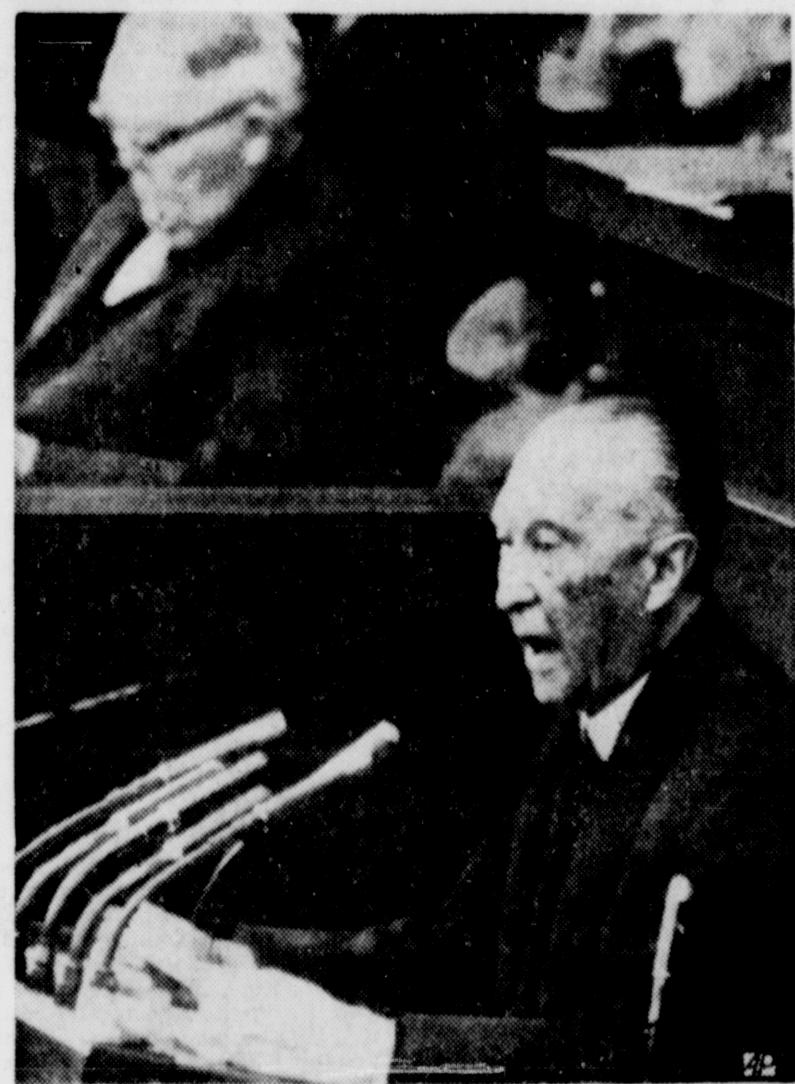

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Agriculture Department is recommending reductions from last year of 2 per cent in the total planted acreages of fresh summer and fall commercial vegetables and 1 per cent for summer melons.

It said in planting guides that acreage adjustments of this kind would be expected to keep production in line with demand, and hence result in favorable producer prices.

The guides also recommended a reduction of 9 per cent in the total acreage of vegetables for processing and 10 per cent for sweet potatoes.

State Liquor Ass'n Opposes License Hike

COLLIERSVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—Approval of the increase in liquor license fees proposed by Gov. Rockefeller "could result in putting hundreds of hotel and restaurant people out of business," the president of the State Restaurant Liquor Dealers Association contends.

Fred Temming of Andes, called the plan a "discriminatory business tax aimed at a specific businessmen's group."

Temming addressed about 50 persons Wednesday night at a regional meeting of the association. The governor has called for a $57 million increase in liquor license fees as one of a series of steps aimed at balancing his $2.9-billion budget for the coming fiscal year.

Escort Held As Witness In Slaying

NEW YORK (AP)—A Dutchman who served as Collette Josselson's escort hours before she was sexually assaulted and slain is being held as a material witness in the case. Police said he did not do it but could provide valuable information.

The witness, Rene Van Der Beek, a tall and slender businessman in his late 30s, was held in $30,000 bond Wednesday after he told a judge:

"I didn't do it. They (the police) know exactly what I did."

Van Der Beek, who lives with a sister in the Flushing section of Queens, was unable to make the bond. Officials said he has been in this country illegally since 1951.

The Dutchman was Mrs. Josselson's last known escort. He was seen entering the fashionable Mayfair East Apartment House where she lived Sunday night.

Van Der Beek told police he took the French-born, 52-year-old divorcee out to dinner and the theater, returned with her to her apartment and left her there some time after midnight.

Mrs. Josselson, a vivacious dark blonde, was found trussed and choked to death with a gag Tuesday in her luxury apartment. Police said she had been dead at least a day.

Subs Not Step To U.S. Weapons, Tokyo to Soviet

TOKYO (AP)—Japan has told the Soviet Union its admission of U.S. nuclear submarines to Japanese ports will not be a step toward admitting American nuclear weapons to Japan.

Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira told Soviet Ambassador Vladimir M. Vinogradov Wednesday the Japanese decision to allow U.S. nuclear-powered submarines to visit Japanese ports should be of no concern to the Soviet government.

He said the decision applies only to submarines which carry no nuclear weapons and does not mean an important change in Japanese arms capabilities, he added.

"It is clear," the Soviet note said, "that submarines, which for the start might even call at Japanese ports without missiles, are in this case called upon to pave the way for the introduction of American nuclear weapons into Japan."

The note expressed the hope that Japan "will not permit any steps which would complicate the situation in the Far East."

Hawks to Be Topic At Friday Assembly

Dr. Heinz Meng will speak to the junior-senior high school assembly at the New Paltz Central School on Friday afternoon. Dr. Meng, who is professor of biology at the State University College here, will speak about the species of hawks which are found in this area.

Dr. Meng received his PhD in 1951. He completed his graduate and undergraduate work at Cornell, majoring in ornithology and minoring in entomology, ecology and conservation. A resident of New Paltz, Dr. Meng is married and has two children, Robin, eight years old and Peter, three.

The lecture will consist of slides about species of hawks found in this area. Included will be methods of trapping and training. Each year Dr. Meng supplies two falcons to the Air Force Academy on Colorado. These falcons are trained by them and used as mascots. After the slides there will be color film showing such things as nest-building, territorial defense, incubation, hatching, hunting and techniques. In addition there will be some live falcons and red-tailed hawk. The most recent edition of Encyclopedia Britannica Junior contains an article on Falconry which was written by Dr. Meng.

Eyes Insurance Change

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), Ulster County has filed a bill in the Assembly to amend the Insurance Law, in relation to the dates for payment of taxes and filing tax returns of insurers authorized to do business of marine insurance in New York State. The tax date is changed under the bill from March 15 to June 1.

Party Chairman Stresses Democrat Stand on Plowing

Former City Judge Aaron E. Klein, present Democratic city chairman, who feels that the stand of majority party aldermen at Tuesday night's Common Council meeting might be misconstrued, today released the following statement:

A Wednesday night newspaper sub-head was misleading, although perhaps not intentionally so; but its correction is in order. It read: "GOP feels parked cars hinder plowing crews." It implies that Democrats believe otherwise.

Agrees Cars Are Problem

Such, of course, is not the case. No person in his right mind can deny the fact that parking of cars poses a problem in snow removal. It is the Democratic view, however, opposed to the Republicans, that you don't cure an ill by killing the patient. More pointedly, we opposed the ordinance sponsored by Republican Alderman Meyers but actually demanded by Mayor Schwenk (as pointed out by Republican Alderman Machione) as too sweeping, inept and generally ruinous. We suggested making a careful study and preparation of a sound and fair ordinance.

The Republican ordinance banned all on-street parking from December 1 through March 31, between the hours of 12:01 a. m. and 7 a. m. Severe penalties were provided for violations. Consider what havoc this ill-considered regulation would have effected. You have guests at your home. The witching hour of midnight arrives. They must drop everything and run for their cars parked at the curb. All patrons of restaurants, movie houses, theatres, churches who have cars parked on the street must rush away at the stroke of 12. People who have no garages must make immediate arrangements for off-street parking, probably at great expense, certainly at great inconvenience.

Mentions New Approach

We prefer to think that with sufficient thought and preparation a more workable, more sensible, more understanding approach can be taken. Perhaps the answer lies in alternate side-of-street parking, or alternate street parking.

Even the most partisan supporters of the ill-conceived ordinance had to admit that it failed to contain all necessary provisions—towing charges and poundage charges—were omitted.

As Democratic city chairman, I am proud of the position taken by the Democratic aldermen who killed the ordinance. They exhibited the careful thought and restraint which the public has come to associate with these responsible members of the council.

Ridge Woman Is Found Injured, Alone in Home

An 88-year-old Stone Ridge woman was found badly injured in her home Monday afternoon when a neighbor youth went to the house on Route 209 to make his daily visit to assist the aged woman.

Monday about 3:30 p. m. Bryan Lowe, 12, went to the house and found it locked. Looking through a window he saw Addie Bell Connor, 88, lying on the floor. He returned home and notified his father, Edward, who in turn summoned Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Spearman of Stone Ridge.

At the Connor home they found an unlocked window and entered the premises. They summoned Dr. Anthony Tocco of Stone Ridge who found the aged woman alive but apparently severely ill. She was brought to Benedictine Hospital by the Rondout Valley Rescue Squad where it was found she had a severe shoulder injury and had apparently suffered a stroke.

Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone is continuing the investigation and attempting to locate relatives. Her condition at the hospital today was reported as "poor."

Assembly Passes Wilson Bill on Money Allowance

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R) Ulster County, bill to amend the Correction Law relating to money allowance to be paid to persons discharged from Matteawan State Hospital, has been passed by the New York State Assembly.

Section 409 of the Correction Law concerns the disposal of insane prisoners after expiration of their term of imprisonment. Whenever, any prisoner who, by reason of his insanity, shall have been retained beyond the expiration of his sentence shall recover, he may be discharged by the superintendent, and such prisoner shall be entitled to $20 in money, suitable clothing and railroad ticket to the county of his conviction or to such other place as the commissioner may designate at no greater distance.

Under the present law the amount to which the prisoner is entitled is $10. This bill had been prefled by the local Assemblyman.

Pair Is Sought After Hudson Man Beaten, Robbed

Taken to Columbia County Memorial Hospital he was given emergency treatment for an eye and other injuries. The victim told police the two came to his place of business and said they wanted to buy a blanket when the man suddenly began to beat him about the head. He said someone rifled his pockets of about $3.

Pidgeon Pleaded To Lose While Subbing for Burr

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I pleaded with them to let me lose the case," said Walter Pidgeon of his subbing for television's ever-winning attorney, Perry Mason.

Due Back Feb. 28
"My argument was that it would make Perry look good. But the producers said that I had to win. After all, Perry had never lost, and I'd be letting him down if I took over the case for him and blew it."

So Pidgeon will continue the show's winning ways when he appears for Raymond Burr on the courtroom show Feb. 28. He is one of the four stars who spelled Burr during the latter's operation and recovery.

The guest stint may serve as a break-in for more strenuous television chores for Pidgeon, who has made a pilot film for Daystar Productions and ABC, "Mr. Kingston." Pidgeon plays skipper of a luxury liner, and Peter Graves is first officer. The prospective series seems to have an excellent chance of surviving the spring scramble for next season's buys.

Pidgeon says he hankers to slow down, but he shows little sign of it. Last year he went on a Quebec location for Disney's "Big Red." He has just returned from Italy, where he co-starred with the French clown TOTO in "The Two Colonels."

21 Years at MGM
While there he also did a guest appearance in an Italian satire on you-know-what called, "The Shortest Day."

Since leaving MGM after 21 memorable years, Pidgeon also had a long run on Broadway and on tour in "The Happiest Millionaire." He played a season with Jackie Gleason in "Take Me Along." His reaction to that experience: "It would be easy to get mad at Gleason, if he didn't have all that talent."

Friends of Turnau Set $5,000 Goal in Fund-Raising Drive

The Friends of the Turnau Opera Association this week launched their 1963 fund-raising campaign with a goal of $5,000. The money to be raised will be used to expand and improve the productions and plant of Woodstock's opera company — the only one of its kind in America.

"Turnau must be kept in Woodstock and provided the means to grow and flourish," said Peter W. Rakov, vice chairman of the Friends' executive committee. To this end, 1,200 brochures, designed by artist Fletcher Martin, have been mailed to residents of the mid-Hudson Valley. They describe Turnau's unique contribution to the cultural life of this area. The brochures were accompanied by a letter from the Friends asking for funds.

"To maintain its vigor, and its cultural contributions," Turnau ought now to expand and improve its operations — while keeping the intimacy which is so essential to its charm," a Friend spokesman said.

Specifically, Rakov said, the funds will be used to:

- 1) improve the physical plant at the Byrdcliffe Theatre; 2) pay Woodstock's share of the cost of new productions; 3) improve the salary level of singers and staff; 4) lengthen the Hudson Valley season.

"The Friends Executive Committee, dedicated to sound investing funds in the performing company, anticipates an enthusiastic response to this fund-raising endeavor," Vice Chairman Rakov continued.

He added that the Friends were aware that their mailing list was far from inclusive. He hoped that others would contribute to the drive, even though they have not been reached directly. Checks should be mailed to the Friends of the Turnau Opera Association, P.O. Box 663, Woodstock.

Raise $800 Locally

Rakov also announced that about $800 had been raised locally before the present drive, and that $2,200 was raised in December at a musicale and auction at the home of Miss Rosa Bok in New York City. Miss Bok is a member of the Honorary Committee of the Friends.

Members of the Friends Executive Committee are: Mrs. Yehudi Wyner, chairman; Peter W. Rakov, vice chairman; Elbert Varney, treasurer; Mrs. Milton Axel, associate treasurer; Mrs. Charles Jennings, secretary; Miss Jean Arnaldi, Manuel Bromberg, Miss Kay Conway, Mrs. Roland Galen, Mrs. Rose Garlock, Robert Haney and Salvador Ley.

For further information, interested persons are asked to call Rakov at Rotron Manufacturing Company or his Woodstock residence.

Chamber Slates Nomination at February Session

Several important topics, including the nomination of officers for 1963-64 are listed on the agenda for the Woodstock Township Chamber of Commerce meeting Thursday, Feb. 14, at 8 p. m. at Deane's upstairs.

Nominations for officers will be made from the floor. Also to be nominated are three candidates for the Board of Directors for terms of three years. Directors whose terms are expiring include Harry Alpern, Richard Langham and Oscar Vandendooren. Election of officers will be held at the annual meeting in March.

Another project to receive the serious consideration of the possibility of a "Woodstock Sales Day," comparable to the successful sales days held in the area communities of Kingston and Saugerties.

Committee Report

Vandendooren, chairman of the Directory Committee, will have a report for the Chamber relating to the progress made on the printing of the township directory which will list all services available to the public by the Chamber of Commerce members.

There will be a membership drive asking all interested parties to join before the directory is printed.

It is planned to feature an introduction and short biographical sketch of a Chamber of Commerce member every week in the area newspapers. This is another new activity of the organization.

All local organizations are asked to check with OR 9-6234, the Chamber of Commerce clearing house for the dates of meetings, dinners and other functions. This will help avoid confusion of dates and duplication in the busy season of the year.

Artist Scores Plight of Horse In Ireland

A prominent Woodstock woman artist who is recognized for her excellent work in support of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals today issued an appeal for American participation in a "Save the Horses" campaign in Ireland.

Until about a year ago, says the Woodstock artist, old work horses were being shipped from Ireland to slaughter houses on the continent. Then in November, 1961, a law was passed putting a ban on shipment of horses over 7 years old. Since then, to circumvent this law, young horses of all types are being shipped abroad every week for slaughter.

The International Society for the Protection of Animals regards this shipping of Irish horses as extremely cruel, involving terror, exhaustion, calous handling, horrible quarters, because they are only so much horse-meat freight.

Representatives of Irish humane societies watch helplessly at the docks during the loading of animals in desperate physical condition — animals that have been, according to the Irish Minister of Agriculture examined individually by a government veterinary officer to insure that it is strong, healthy and fit to travel.

Criticize Minister

Miss Godwin says that the humane representatives have tried often to buy these animals not likely to survive the ordeal of the sea trip, but their deep concern is more than those obviously unfit horses should have been passed as fit by the government veterinarians in the first place.

"A total ban on the export of horses to foreign abattoirs is the only remedy," says the artist. "Ireland now has three horse abattoirs and this live export is totally unnecessary. But to make this law, there is need for plenty of pressure on the Irish government from horse lovers everywhere.

"And there is hope," she went on, "the organizer of the Save the Irish Horses Fund told the ISPA (International Society for the Protection of Animals) that the Irish Government feels keenly public opinion outside the country, especially from the United States."

Capybaras are shy, gentle animals, which voice a low, abrupt grunt when pleased and which at the slightest sign of danger jump into water.

helped end cruel situations in the past. The ISPA believes such letters can end the suffering of these horses, she continued. Those who wish to plead for them should write at once, briefly, but carefully, to: The Minister of Agriculture, Dublin 2, Ireland, urging the complete ban on traffic in live horses to slaughter houses on the continent, since there are adequate facilities in Ireland for the slaughtering of those animals.

Bearsville Miss Plays Role in Blithe Spirit

Barbara DiBenedetto of Bearsville, a freshman at Cobleskill Agricultural and Technical Institute, was seen recently in a scene adaptation of "Blithe Spirit" by Noel Coward. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bito DiBenedetto of Overlook Drive.

Unlike herself, Miss DiBenedetto played the part of Madame Arcati, a mad, haphazard woman who is the spiritualist medium of a seance in the international hit authored by Coward.

In this scene, Madame Arcati is invited by the Condomines to hold a seance. The Bradman's were also invited as guests. Madame Arcati brings the seance, later going off into a roaring, daunt trance.

While Madame Arcati is in her trance, Condomine comes in contact with a voice from the spirit world. This voice later turns out to be Condomine's first wife, Elvira. When ghost-like Elvira appears in person, only Mr. Condomine can see her.

Up to this point, everybody enjoyed this seance as entertainment only. Charles now changed his views toward Madame Arcati being that she really came in contact with spirits.

Confusion arises between Mr. Condomine and his present wife and his "past-over" wife in this scene. This spiritualistic scene provided great variety and laughter. The remainder of the play becomes more involved, adding streaks of insanity and death.

Chrysler Board Proposes Split, Dividend Boost

NEW YORK (AP) — Chrysler Corp. today reported record earnings in the fourth quarter of 1962, and directors proposed to split the common stock 2-for-1 and increase the dividend.

The news followed disclosure of record-high earnings for 1962 by the only auto manufacturers larger than Chrysler, General Motors and Ford.

Chrysler cleared $65.4 million, or $7.24 a share for the year, compared with $11.1 million or $1.34 a share in 1961.

Despite the company's spectacular recovery from the relative doldrums in recent years, the results still were far below Chrysler's best profit year—1949, when net income soared to $132,170,000.

Eaton Absolved On Charge of Overloaded Truck

A charge against Donald L. Eaton Jr., of Colonial Gardens, dealing with an alleged overweight load on a truck, dating back to Sept. 12, 1962, was dismissed today in city court.

Attorney Howard C. St. John, who appeared for Eaton, contended that the People had failed to prove the charge beyond a reasonable doubt. Police claimed the load was excessive when the truck was stopped on Abell Street.

Russell Bassett, 45, of Box 206, Kingston, charged with a driver's license violation, was fined $10.

Thomas Feeney, 24, of 12 West Chester Street, one of two young men charged with a Jan. 6 assault on George DeCicco, 35, of East Kingston, was found guilty after trial before Judge Joseph D. Saccomanno Tuesday, and was fined $100.

Thomas Davitt, 23, of 25 Charlotte Street, the other defendant, is due in court Feb. 11. Police reported that DeCicco had been assaulted on Broadway and was treated at Kingston Hospital for head and face injuries.

Thomas Feeney was represented by Attorney Bernard A. Feeney Jr., Charles H. Gaffney appears for Davitt.

Blame Dozing Driver For Paltz Mishap

The driver of a tractor-trailer was injured early this morning when two such vehicles were involved in an accident on the Thruway near New Paltz. Cause of the accident, according to Trooper Robert Radloff who investigated, was one of the drivers falling asleep.

A tractor-trailer owned by Roberts Food Corporation, 38th Street, Brooklyn, operated by Joseph Wilbur Pete, 33, of Brooklyn, was proceeding north. Following was a tractor-trailer owned by Palmer and Williams, Front Street, Binghamton, driven by Robert Austin, 48, Binghamton, who allegedly fell asleep and his vehicle struck the Food Corp. truck in the rear. The accident happened 5:20 a. m.

Austin received an injury to the forehead and was taken to St. Luke's Hospital, Newburgh, where he was treated and released.

Valley Carpenters

an unnecessary hardship, not only for the workman, but his wife and children.

"The loss of work prevents a workman from having sufficient employment to qualify for unemployment insurance and for sickness and accident disability benefits, thereby extending a workman's losses well beyond the normal life of the project."

"In the heavily populated urban area where employment for construction workers is not entirely dependent on public works construction we can understand the opposition to your proposal."

However, it is difficult for us to understand why our elected representatives in the so-called upstate areas can express opposition which could well mean continued unemployment and hardship to hundreds of workmen and their families. This opposition must be based on a lack of knowledge regarding the needs of many of their constituents.

"The taxes of construction workers are used to support all facets of state government and of local government. They are used as contributions to state health insurance plans and to state retirement plans and to pay the salaries of elected officials. They are used to finance laws which we consider detrimental to our unions as well as to finance laws that help all workmen through the state."

"The loss of employment through curtailed highway construction program means the difference between making a living or seeking welfare aid to support the families of men who are willing to work but are deprived from so doing because of ill-conceived opposition."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Gains by motors, aerospace issues and selected stocks featured an irregular stock market early today. Trading was moderate.

Changes of most key stocks were fractional.

Houston Lighting & Power advanced 4 in response to news it plans a 4-for-1 stock split and dividend hike.

Chrysler, whose directors meet today for dividend action, recovered fractionally from yesterday's sharp loss. Most of the other auto stocks pushed ahead narrowly. General Motors touched another historic high.

Aerospace issues also posted a string of fractional gains amid reports of additional defense contracts.

Prices were irregular on the American Stock Exchange and most changes were narrow.

Corporate bonds were mostly steady.

Bonn Publisher Freed From Prison

KARLSRUHE, Germany (AP)—Publisher Rudolph Augstein, whose arrest Oct. 27 on suspicion of treason caused a government crisis, was released from prison today, the federal prosecutor's office announced.

Augstein and 10 members of the staff of Der Spiegel were arrested after the news magazine published a story strongly critical of the West German armed forces. The prosecutor said the article contained official secrets.

No charges have been filed against Augstein or any members of his staff. All the others were released earlier.

Augstein was released on order of a magistrate of the Supreme Court, who ruled there was no longer any danger of his tampering with evidence in the case. These were the grounds on which he had been held.

The arrest of Spiegel staff members brought sharp protests from the West German press and public. A number of the arrests and house searches took place at night and critics said such tactics were reminiscent of Nazi methods.

Stormy Bundestag (parliament) debates eventually toppled the Cabinet of Chancellor Konrad Adenauer. In forming a new government he had to drop Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss, long a target of Der Spiegel.

Strauss was accused of being behind the government action, although his ministry at first denied any connection. His ouster from the government was demanded after he admitted in the Bundestag that he had a hand in the arrest of editor Conrad Ahlers in Spain.

Fire Does Damage At Erena Home

A blaze, which firemen said started from hot carbon particles on a wooden fireplace covering in a basement area of the Anthony J. Erena home, 73 Cedar Street Wednesday night, damaged furniture, floor timbers and electric wiring.

First and second floor of the two-story, frame structure were heavily charged with smoke as the blaze, which started vertically, damaged first-floor timbers and floor boards. Several pieces of furniture in the basement were damaged.

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks local unit responded to a call at 9:19 p. m. with Chief James M. Brett and Deputy Chief Glynn M. Southard in charge. Firemen were forced to break basement windows and a rear basement door to get at the fire.

As for concrete bases for intermediate range missiles, Keating told the Associated Press, he had never mentioned them at any time.

Easy to Shift

Stratton, who is considered a possible contender for Keating's Senate seat next year, commented:

"It is easy for Sen. Keating to say one thing today, and then, when someone blows the whistle on him, say the precise opposite the next day without batting an eyelash."

"After all," Stratton added, "he fortunately doesn't have the heavy and solemn responsibility to act on what he says. He just fills pages of the Congressional Record and gets headlines."

Job Insurance

opposed the present system of assessing employers. The organization contends that some industries contribute far less than their unemployed workers take out.

Shaw told Rockefeller a recent survey by Associated Industries showed unemployment insurance costs for some of the more stable businesses had risen by as much as 750 per cent in the last seven years.

At the same time, he said, the costs for companies whose employees take out more than the employers put in had gone up by 55 per cent in the same period.

Migrant Still Critical

The condition of Fred Johnston, 63, migrant worker who suffered severe frostbite and had both feet removed at Kingston Hospital, remained critical today.

Johnston, who had been employed about the Milton area, reported to the Ulster County Home at New Paltz with both feet frozen. He was brought to the hospital Monday where both feet were amputated.

Shorter Week Is Opposed as Costly By Construction

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Members of 16 building trades unions were on notice today that Eastern New York Construction Employers Inc. opposed "any proposals to shorten the work week."

The employers' association has 250 members in the northeastern section of the state. Contracts between the association and the unions expire May 1.

James P. McKenna, president of the employers' group, said Wednesday that "a shorter work week would increase the hourly rate of labor costs by more than 14 per cent."

Says Hoffa, Top

that the Justice Department was exerting pressure on bonding companies to prevent them from insuring Teamsters' funds. However, he told a congressional committee that he had no first-hand information of this.

The Tribune said that a Chicago insurance executive, who was not identified, said that because the International Teamsters Union has almost $40 million in assets it will be necessary for Hoffa and other international leaders to post $500,000 bonds.

It said Wright was in Washington to confer with Teamsters leaders to discuss the coverage his company could give them under the Landrum-Griffin Act, which requires union officials to post bonds covering 10 per cent of all union funds they control.

The Tribune said Wright related that his firm will cover a number of Teamsters clerks and other office workers who do not require more than a $500,000 bond.

Companies Limited

The paper added that insurance companies are limited to write surety bonds up to 10 per cent of their surplus. Wright could write all the Teamsters bonding business only if other insurance companies, with enough assets and Treasury Department approval, would reinsure the bonds, the Tribune said.

It added that a spokesman for Hoffa said that the union president has put aside all other union business in an effort to work out some sort of bonds before the deadline. Hoffa has said that it might be necessary to shut down union financial business when the bonds expire Friday, the Tribune said.

Easy to Shift

Stratton, who is considered a possible contender for Keating's Senate seat next year, commented:

"It is easy for Sen. Keating to say one thing today, and then, when someone blows the whistle on him, say the precise opposite the next day without batting an eyelash."

"After all," Stratton added, "he fortunately doesn't have the heavy and solemn responsibility to act on what he says. He just fills pages of the Congressional Record and gets headlines."

Job Insurance

opposed the present system of assessing employers. The organization contends that some industries contribute far less than their unemployed workers take out.

Shaw told Rockefeller a recent survey by Associated Industries showed unemployment insurance costs for some of the more stable businesses had risen by as much as 750 per cent in the last seven years.

At the same time, he said, the costs for companies whose employees take out more than the employers put in had gone up by 55 per cent in the same period.

Migrant Still Critical

The condition of Fred Johnston, 63, migrant worker who suffered severe frostbite and had both feet removed at Kingston Hospital, remained critical today.

Johnston, who had been employed about the Milton area, reported to the Ulster County Home at New Paltz with both feet frozen. He was brought to the hospital Monday where both feet were amputated.

acting leader, were regarded as neck and neck favorites for the job. Political commentators gave Wilson a slight edge. The third candidate, fiscal expert James Callaghan, was considered a dark horse.

The 249 Laborites in the House Commons have been casting secret ballots for a week for a new leader to succeed the late Hugh Gaitskell. The ballot box will be opened tonight and the votes counted.

If the first ballot gives none of the candidates a majority, the man with the fewest votes is eliminated and the remaining two go into a new contest.

Gaitskell Avoided Split

Gaitskell during his seven years as leader welded the party together on the two big issues that threatened to split it in two—unilateral disarmament and further nationalization. His death Jan. 18 raised speculation that the old disputes might break out again.

The Conservative government of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan has a majority of 100 in the House of Commons. Macmillan can pick the time for the general election which must be held by October, 1964. The leader of the party winning a majority in the House of Commons automatically becomes prime minister.

Brown Will Join

and "because of his concern."

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, who has been conducting City Hall talks with both sides, told newsman he telephoned Brown in Colorado Springs and told him it would be very helpful if he came to New York.

In Colorado Springs, votes were being tabulated from about 75,000 ITU members on whether to assess themselves three per cent of their yearly salaries to meet the financial drain of the New York and Cleveland newspaper strikes.

In Cleveland, where papers have been shut down 70 days, the non-striking Pressmen's Union announced Wednesday night it had reached a contract settlement with publishers of the struck Plain Dealer and the Press & News.

The two-year pact calls for $10 wage increases and improved vacation pay, plus fringe benefits and improved working conditions.

The agreement could set a pattern for settlement with 11 other newspaper unions, all of whose contracts have expired.

The AFL-CIO Cleveland Newspaper Guild reached agreement Wednesday with the Plain Dealer on all issues but money items for a proposed two-year contract.

A major stumbling block between the Guild and both papers has been union security. Negotiations on that issue remain to be resolved between the Guild and the Press & News.

Others Join in Talks

Also on strike against the two Cleveland dailies are the printers, the mailers and the machinists—all affiliated with the AFL-CIO and the Teamsters Union (Ind.).

In New York, A. A. Deardoff, president of the Pressmen's Union; William Hall, head of the Photoengravers Union, and James Sampson of the Stereotypers Union, will join Brown at the negotiations.

Reports in the ITU national referendum showed members voted strongly in favor of the 3 per cent assessment.

The President suggested a test to see "how well our present-day officers perform the task specified by President Roosevelt."

An official hike will be staged Tuesday by 20 young captains and lieutenants at Camp Lejeune, N.C. They'll wear a helmet, cartridge belt, canteen, marching pack and pistol—about 24 pounds of equipment.

Marines at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center plan to make a hike the same day—if snow thaws in time. Otherwise, said Col. H. C. Boehm, the Illinois hike will come in March or April.

World's Fair Contract Tip
No Reason to Buy Stock

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I have just received a letter from a relative telling me to sell everything I have and buy Colonial Sand as they are going to supply materials to the New York World's Fair grounds. Is this true? Should I do what my relatives suggest?" — H. H.

A) I don't know whether your relatives' report is true or not. I do know that if such rumors have substance, they are usually well-discounted before the public gets to know them. True or false, however, I would ignore your relatives' advice.

Colonial Sand is a big company — biggest in its line in the New York area — and it is difficult to visualize any tremendous buildup in earnings from a World's Fair contract.

In any event, if you will excuse my saying so, it would be the height of folly to plunge with everything you have on what is little better than a tip. Believe me, there are far more fortunes lost than won by following that procedure.

Q) "Could you tell me what has gone wrong with Gillette?" — J. K., S. C., D. W.

A) Nothing actually has gone wrong with Gillette. However, there is something in the works that could have a bearing on further earnings and which probably accounts for the relatively poor action of the shares.

The company is said to be planning to put out a longer-lasting stainless steel blade — pressured by production of similar blades by other companies. Gillette's recent gains in revenue have been due to growing penetration of the market by its Super Blue Blade.

Investors are sitting on the sidelines waiting to see what the effect on profits will be if the stainless steel blades get acceptance at the expense of the Super Blues. I would like to add one comment. Gillette has one of the best managements I know of. They have beaten tough problems before, and I think they are likely to do so again.

military gear the Communists try to hide.

In another move Wednesday, Kennedy ordered into effect penalties against foreign shipowners carrying cargo to Cuba.

With White House direction, officials mounted a massive wave of counterattacks against those who have been claiming there is a growing threat in Cuba.

Convinced, He Says

Before the televised report, Central Intelligence Agency chief John A. McCone went before a Senate Armed Services subcommittee.

"We are convinced beyond reasonable doubt that all offensive missiles and bombers known to be in Cuba" have been pulled out, McCone said.

McNamara used almost identical words when he went before the television cameras.

The Pentagon chief went even further, in an attempt to knock down persistent reports, mainly from Cuban refugee sources, that the Soviets are hiding missiles in caves, out of sight of prying aerial cameras.

"I am satisfied that there are no major elements of offensive weapons systems in the caves of Cuba," McCone said.

He reported for the first time that recent reconnaissance has revealed that certain equipment of Soviet combat forces, gear associated with battlefield-type rockets, "has also started to be moved out of the island back to the Soviet Union."

17,000 Still There

McNamara acknowledged there still are about 17,000 Soviets in Cuba, including about 5,000 men in four motorized, tank-equipped task forces.

But he discounted the possibility that they could move any of their heavy military hardware against any other Latin-American countries. The Soviets and Cubans don't have the ships to do this, he said.

As for fears that the more than 100 Soviet MIGs could be used in a nuclear bombing strike against the United States, McNamara said they are not adapted for that mission now. If they were fitted to carry a maximum bomb load, the defense secretary said, their range would be so limited they could hit only the tip of Florida.

The bulk of the briefing was conducted by a youthful expert, John T. Hughes, who emerged from the secrecy-cloaked defense intelligence agency for that purpose.

'No Military Activity'

Hughes backed up McNamara's assurances, saying that as late as last Monday U.S. aerial photos showed that the onetime Soviet missile and bomber bases were "inactive, still dismantled and marked by no military activity."

Armed with a long pointer and 12-foot-tall blowups of reconnaissance pictures, Hughes recounted how high altitude planes — U-2s, though he didn't say so — gathered the first hard evidence of work on bases for 1,265-mile medium range missiles last Oct. 14. Three days later, he said, these planes spotted bases being built for 2,530-mile intermediate range missiles.

The chief Soviet objective, he said, was to "achieve clandestinely a full operational capability for all systems by early December 1962 in order to confront the United States with a fait accompli."

Stresses Close Call

Hughes stressed the close call the United States had last fall. He said intelligence authorities reported on Oct. 28 that the Soviets had achieved full combat readiness for all their medium range missiles, able to strike at

Would you shake the cable and keep shouting, 'Blondie, stoop a little more—go a little faster—lean a little more to the north?' No, you would hold your breath as well as your tongue, and keep your hands off until he was safe over. The government is carrying an immense weight. Untold treasures are in our hands. Jane wrote, and with downcast eyes and flaming cheeks, handed the teacher a slip of paper bearing the words "Willie Smith."

Houghtaling - Lopiano Wedding Announced; Ceremony Takes Place at St. Joseph's

Miss Alice Marie Houghtaling, daughter of Mrs. Edward Houghtaling of 219 Downs Street, this city, and the late Edward Houghtaling, exchanged nuptial vows with Russell Lopiano, son of Mrs. Irene Lopiano of Lomontville, N. Y. The ceremony took place at 2 p. m. on Saturday, Feb. 2 at St. Joseph's Church in Kingston. The Rev. William Williams officiated.

At the organ was Mrs. Frank Rafferty and Robert Gallo was the soloist.

Vases of white gladioli and pompons decorated the church for the occasion. The pews were marked with white ribbon.

Robert Houghtaling of Downs Street, Kingston, gave his sister in marriage. She wore a gown of embroidered nylon tulle over a full length gown of blue velvet designed with a scoop neckline, three quarter length sleeves and modified bell skirt. Her matching crown of seed pearls held a short flirtation veil. She carried a cascade of pale pink and azalea pink carnations.

The bride's sister, Peggy, was maid of honor. She wore a full length gown of blue velvet designed with a scoop neckline, three quarter length sleeves and modified bell skirt. Her matching crown of seed pearls held a short flirtation veil. She carried a cascade of pale pink and azalea pink carnations.

Attendants were the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Robert Houghtaling of Colonial Gardens, and Miss Joan Rappleyea, cousin of the bride. Miss Rappleyea resides at 116 South Manor Avenue. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant. The color of the gowns was azalea pink and they carried cascades of pink carnations.

Miss Cynthia Curlin and Vicki Lynn Writcon were flower girls. They wore gowns similar to the attendants but in deep blue velvet. Miniature gowns of seed pearls held tiny veils and they carried miniature nosegays of carnations in shades of pink.

Ronald Bahorick, Colonial Gardens, served as best man. Ushering were Martin Lopiano of Lomontville, and William Writcon of Kingston. Robert Houghtaling and John Lopiano were the child ringbearers.

Approximately 100 guests were entertained at a reception given in Aiello's Restaurant.

For her wedding trip to New York, the bride wore a gold wool dress with fur hat and coat. Mr. Lopiano and her husband are graduates of Kingston High School. Mrs. Lopiano is employed by F. Jacobson and Sons. Her husband, who served four years with the U. S. Navy, is employed by Canteen Service.

The couple will reside in Hurley.

Henry Brown To Lead Visitors Against Locals

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Henry Brown, the most heralded transfer student in recent seasons, will be in the spotlight Friday night when league leading Poughkeepsie invades the Kate Walton Field House for a DUSO engagement with fourth place Kingston.

One of the best crowds of the season is expected to watch the Pioneers take another step towards the league championship with a second straight victory over the home side, Poughkeepsie won, 73-54, back in December.

Brown is the key player in the PHS attack. He's meshed 133 points in seven league outings, putting him second to lanky Bill Gray in the scoring derby. However, he's not a one man club, not by a long shot.

Ronnie Montalto, a deadly shooter from either corner, has tallied 89 markers in seven games. Duke Lawrence, another high scoring performer, hasn't seen action the past couple of weeks because of an injury. Don't be surprised if he's ready for this one.

Poughkeepsie had the services of Hardrick Moore for half a season. Since his graduation, the club has scored a pair of impressive victories over Roosevelt and Liberty. Roland Butts, Bill Dennis and others have taken up the slack.

Coach Sam J. Kallach, now in his 43rd year at the Bridge City School, will be seeking his first cage title since the 1959-60 season, the year the Pioneers sneaked past Kingston in the second half, thanks largely to Joe Uhl's ankle break.

Lost to Beacon

Poughkeepsie won its first three games before bowing, 50-42, to Beacon. Since then, the visitors have beaten seven opponents and the closest any club came is Newburgh, which lost a 60-51 overtime decision.

Coach John Gilligan will start the same lineup which has captured three straight and four of the last five. This includes Ron Thomas, Larry Marcus, Jim Plunkett, Mike Canning and Larry Armstrong. Thomas, with 124 points in seven league games, ranks third in scoring. He's been sizzling of late and his 26 markers at Lourdes on Tuesday was a big reason why the Maroon players were able to squeak to that 62-59 triumph.

Both clubs play entirely different basketball. Poughkeepsie depends on speed and a lot of shooting to score points. Kingston tries to keep the ball, working for the good shot and not trying to outpace the opponent.

In the 6:30 prelim, the local jayvee team will try to avenge a seven point setback it suffered at the Bridge City gym.

Nice Clean Play Fails for Celts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Celtics were quite tame in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

Accused of rough play before their game with the Syracuse Nationals, the Celtics took a 126-109 drubbing from the aroused Nats on the Syracuse court.

The San Francisco Warriors edged the Detroit Pistons 117-116 and the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the Chicago Zephyrs 107-105 in the other games scheduled.

The Celtics denied the charge of rough play, made after their victory over Cincinnati Tuesday, and there was only a minor flare-up.

Request Made at Recent Meeting Of Loop Officials

Ellenville Central, a member of the DUSO League since the 1930s, has applied for admission to the Ulster County Athletic League. The request, made by Athletic Director A. W. (Pete) Roberts at Monday's meeting of UCAL coaches and officials, will be acted on by the circuit at its March 25 meeting, scheduled for Reggie's Inn, New Paltz.

According to Executive Secretary Jim McIntyre of Pine Bush, Ellenville desires to play the spring sports during 1964 and has applied for membership in all sports, beginning with the 1964-65 season. Since the school Board of Education recently adopted football, it will mean the Ulster school will compete in all major sports and most minor ones, if accepted by the league.

Schedule Problem

Roberts, in explaining his school's position, said it would be with utmost regret that Ellenville, if accepted into the UCAL, would leave the DUSO. However, he emphasized that the problem of scheduling games for the football team, as well as making it mandatory that the school attempt to join the other league.

Ellenville competes in the DUSO Village circuit in basketball and baseball, having dropped from the City Basketball League after the 1959-60 season. With Monticello having already turned down football, for at least another year and with Fallsburg reportedly also declining to play the sport, the Ellies would have trouble filling a grid schedule.

All schools in the Ulster County League, with the exception of Marlboro as classified as "B" schools. Marlboro is a "C" school. Ellenville is also a "B" school.

This marks the third school which has applied for entrance to the rapidly growing UCAL. Pine Bush was accepted in all three sports and Liberty was granted it in football only.

No Weekday League Games

In other UCAL business, the league approved track, baseball and basketball schedules for the coming year. It also voted to play league basketball games on midweek night before a holiday. Games will also be played during Christmas week.

The question of hiring four officials a night for jayvee and varsity games, as recommended by the Central Hudson Valley Board of Approved Basketball Officials, was discussed. Members will meet with the officials to talk over the proposal.

The minor sports events are scheduled for March 16 at Onteora Central School.

A representative from the Ulster County Medical Assn. will talk about athletic injuries at the March 25 meeting.

Monday's meeting was held at the New Paltz Central School with President Ed Witko of Onteora presiding.

Hub Delicatessen crushed Tucker's, 115-44, to remain undefeated (8-0) in the YMCA "B" league Wednesday night. All but one of the points came from the field.

In companion game, Doran's had six men in double figures in a 74-31 romp over Elston's.

None of the six Delicatessen players scored less than 14 points. Tony Causa and Ray Lukaszewski potted 24 apiece. J. Palen scored 19. Nick Nagele and Al Short tied with 16 and Don Komosa added 14. Pete Zeeh rimmed 17 and Pete Coffey hit 15 for Tucker's.

Would Add 26 Racing Days

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller's bill to lengthen the harness racing season and thereby produce additional state tax revenue would add 26 racing days to the 1963 season.

Legislation now in the fiscal committees of the Senate and Assembly provide that the season would open on the Monday of the week in which March 1 falls and close on the Saturday of the first full week in December.

This would mean a Feb. 25-Dec. 7 season this year, an increase in racing days of 26 over the present authorized season, March 20-Dec. 1.

Previously, the administration had said it planned to increase the season by 22 racing days—March 1 to Dec. 7.

A spokesman for the State Budget Division said it expected the additional days, plus an additional daily rate, to produce $9 million more in annual state tax revenue from harness racing.

Rockefeller has requested the Harness Racing Commission to authorize a tenth daily race.

Legislative action on the bill will begin next week when it is reported out of committee. Passage is expected the following week.

Major League Clubs Present Old-Time Baseball Revivals

BY PAT HARMON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DAYTON, Ohio — (NEA) — The season for major league clubs' old-time baseball revivals has closed.

Bill DeWitt's chautauqua and traveling barbecue dropped into Dayton for a four-hour night stand.

President DeWitt and his Red baseball evangelists played it heavy. Their theme was: "Come to Cincinnati." Fred Hutchinson, the manager; John Murdough, the business manager; Avery Robbins, the traveling secretary; and Hank Zureick, the publicity chief, laid out the cause for the crusade.

On the lectern in Dayton and at a luncheon stop earlier in the day, DeWitt's exhorters shot the message across to the citizens of 18 cities—Dayton, Chillicothe, Columbus, Springfield, Eaton, Hamilton, Troy, Piqua, Sidney, Fairborn, Xenia, Lima, Indianapolis, Richmond, Middletown, St. Henry and Bellefontaine.

Tops the Chamber

It was a program that should have made the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, the Tourist Bureau and the hotel and restaurant owners proud. It had been going on for a week. It touched four states—Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and West Virginia.

DeWitt announced he was coming. He'd bring Hutchinson and the front-office gang, plus some players. He announced there'd be a fine opportunity for newspaper, television and radio folk to get interviews. In Dayton, Hutch had nine separate sessions with news-

SCHOLASTIC CORNER

By ED PALLADINO

Sam J. Kallach makes his 43rd annual basketball appearance in Kingston Friday night and the old coger still hasn't changed. He's a little bald around the edges and his short, stumpy legs are somewhat to see when he walks on the court, complete with clipboard and pencil.

And, true to the Kallach tradition, he is coaching a squad, which he publicly said at the beginning of the season, wouldn't even be in the race for the DUSO title. So, what's happened? The visitors have a gaudy 7-0 circuit mark and that's not bad in any league.

BROWN IS FANTASTIC

The portly Pioneer three sport coach exclaimed before the cage season got underway that he didn't know if Hank Brown, the heralded transfer student from Beacon, would make the club, not alone be a virtual cinch for ALL-DUSO honors. That's like saying Mickey Mantle would be cut from the Yankees at the completion of Spring training.

Brown came to Poughkeepsie with an impressive set of statistics you could find. Only a junior, he's averaging 23 points a game. In addition, Hank is a team player in every phase of the game. He digs for the rebounds and sets up many baskets.

Yet, Kallach, who makes Frank Leahy look like an amateur when it comes to being pessimistic, soundly chastised this reporter when he had the audacity to select the Pioneers to finish on top of the basketball standings.

THERE ARE OTHERS

Brown is not a good player, he's a great one. In addition, there was Hardwick Moore for half a season plus the likes of Ronnie Montalto, Tom Parker, Roland Butts, George Gordon, Bill Dennis and others. We know that if Brown didn't make the PHS squad, six other coaches in the circuit would have put in a bid for his talented services.

We have no doubt that this PHS quintet is one of Kallach's best in recent seasons. It's 10-1 record is ample proof. It is an almost certainty that the Bridge City cagers will win the title this season because we just don't see two clubs capable of beating them, thus forcing a possible playoff tilt.

The Kallach version of basketball still hasn't changed. His boys always come prepared to play. They shoot well, run like rabbits and, with their leader working hard from the bench, never fail to give the spectators their money's worth.

NOT NEAR RETIREMENT

Since Sam doesn't do much talking to the press, either to the one in his home town or to other reporters, we don't pretend to know when he will give up the coaching job and start enjoying the luxuries of life from his rocking chair. We feel that he will be in there right until the mandatory retirement age of 70, which is still several years away.

We don't always agree with the PHS mentor. However, we always look forward to observing his actions before, during and after a game—whether it be football, basketball or baseball.

Sam J. is a respected coach and his record of more than 1,100 victories in the three major sports shows that he knows more than a little bit about each one.

His talented cagers will be heavy favorites (despite Sam's tears of joy) to beat Kingston for a second straight time tomorrow night. But, whether he wins or not, it is always worth the price of admission to see Kallach operate. He's certainly the last of the old breed—and he's outlasted most of the younger coaches.

St. Mary's Juniors Run Skein To 13 Straight in CYO League

St. Mary's No. 1 team turned back St. Catherine's 37-31, in what was described as one of the finest games played in CYO Junior basketball this season.

It was St. Mary's eighth straight victory in league competition and 13 overall and a particularly important one, since it knocked its biggest rival deeper into second place.

Vince Fisher and Jim Williams led St. Mary's scoring with 12 points each and Rod DeVeau hit 16 for the losers. Despite the scoring antics of Fisher and Williams, St. Mary's outstanding player was Greg Munson, who controlled the boards and played a superb defense. It was probably the best performance of his career.

Germann Paces Eastern League On 226 Average

John Germann of the Albany Eagles is paces Eastern Professional Bowling League kleglers with a 226.2 average in the first 15 games. Two teammates rank right behind the leader, Darwin (Punk) Limmer with 214.2 and Johnny Walther, 211.4.

Philadelphia Patriots and New York Hawks are tied for the league lead with 10 and 5 records, a game ahead of Albany Eagles and Baltimore Tigers.

John DeMartino, Washington, and Ben McNevech, New York, are leading point scorers with 19 each.

Every Sunday from now through March 31, the live TV match in the league will be presented at 4 p. m. over WPIX (Channel 11) in the New York area. The telecast is also seen throughout the east through the facilities of Sports Network Inc. All matches are rolled at Gladiators Arena in Totowa, N. J.

Two games are rolled each week with three wins in the standings at stake. A point is given for each game won and for combined pinnage for the two games. Each game is scored on a point basis. One point is given for the winner of each individual match—leadoff against leadoff, second man against second man so on down the line.

Additional bonus points are scored by any bowler who rolls 210 or better. A game of 210-219 earns him one bonus point; 220-229, two bonus points and up to 10 bonus points for a 300. A bowler who rolls seven strikes in a row on TV earns himself $700 and each additional strike above seven will earn an additional $100.

Titans Bankrupt With Debts Over Million Mark

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Titans, plagued with debts and seeking a buyer, have filed a bankruptcy suit but asked permission to continue in operation.

American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss adopted a no comment, wait-and-see position on this latest move by Titan president and principal stockholder Harry Wismer.

Wisner, a controversial figure who has a separate $2.5 million fraud and slander suit pending in another court action in Boston, listed the team's assets at $271,999 and its liabilities at $1,341,000 in the petition filed in Federal District Court Wednesday.

At the same time, however, he said the team has entered into profitable radio and television contracts for the 1963 season which he claimed would result in substantial revenues if the team is allowed to operate.

His attorney, William Richter, said the Titans have asked for an injunction prohibiting the league from any action in connection with the franchise.

Foss said he had no knowledge of the team's request to continue operations, nor had he been served with injunction papers.

Wisner put the club up for sale in November. The latest reported negotiations were with a group headed by Ted Barron of Newton, Mass. Barron later announced he was withdrawing from the negotiations.

Local Typos Vote Wage Percentage To Help Strikers

Members of Kingston Typographical Union, Local 322, voted Wednesday to pay a percentage of their wages for a year's period to help members of their craft now on strike.

Printers have been on strike in New York City and Cleveland over a long period.

The Kingston unit was one of more than 700 voting throughout the continental United States, Hawaii and Canada.

The vote was on a special wage assessment of three per cent for Typo members over a year, starting this month to help pay strike and lockout benefits.

The ballot stressed that the Executive Council of the International Typographical Union has authority to reduce the amount of assessment as conditions may warrant.

At a recent meeting, the Kingston printers voted for an immediate loan of $1,000 to the ITU to help the "Big Six" strike and lockout fund.

Day Camp Parley

The YMCA Day Camp Committee met recently under the chairmanship of G. Herbert DeKay to consider improvements and new equipment for the coming season.

Robert Clum, William Dimmerling and John Spinnenweber were welcomed as new committee members.

Under consideration for improvements are a suspension bridge from the office to the junior camp road. Docks for the swimming area, a backdrop for the baseball field, archery range beyond the ballfield, a flag pole in the middle of the parking area. Gates for the parking entrance and on the road and to the junior camp section. A council ring for story telling, camp fires, and Indian lore also were discussed.

The committee agreed to the ordering of 1,000 trees for spring planting and the purchase of two 11-foot sail boats for immediate delivery.

Members of the committee have agreed to take charge of many improvements to make sure they will be complete for the opening of camp June 24.

Plans for the 18th annual banquet of Ulster Hose Company No. 5, Town of Ulster, have been completed. The banquet will be held at Aiello's Restaurant Saturday starting at 6:30 o'clock.

Marino said that this will be one of the largest attended banquets to date. Former Assistant Fire Chief Harold Sanford will address the group as well as Alexander Banyo, Town of Ulster Supervisor. Acting as toastmaster will be Ted Musiakiewicz.

Highlights of the evening will be presentation of the annual award to the "fireman of the year." The presentation will be made by President Robert Metcalf. Dancing will follow the dinner.

Youth Returns Here To Face 1960 Charge

Gerald Hill, 19, was apprehended in Riverhead, L. I., early this week by Suffolk County police on a warrant issued in Ulster County charging third degree burglary. Ulster County Investigator Thomas Mayone had alerted the Suffolk police after he learned that Hill, a native of Nova Scotia, had been keeping company some time ago with a Riverhead girl.

Hill was charged in 1960 with third degree burglary and unlawful entry at a Town of Saugerties home. He has been under bail since. Since leaving this locality he had been in Nova Scotia and Florida and recently returned to Riverhead. Since he was admitted to bail he has been married. Investigator Mayone went to Riverhead Tuesday and returned Hill to Ulster County Jail for appearance later before County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

Printers Favor Higher Fee to Support Strikes

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Union printers across the country are approving an increase in assessments to support strikes in New York City and Cleveland, union headquarters said today.

Elmer F. Brown, president of the International Typographical Union, AFL-CIO, said unofficial returns from a vote by ITU's 75,000 members show overwhelming support of a proposal to increase the 1 per cent strike levy to 4 per cent of members' weekly wages.

This will increase revenue to pay strike benefits of $457,000 weekly, Brown said. The 1 per cent assessment imposed automatically when the union's strike fund dropped below $500,000 has brought in $114,000 a week. The assessment is based on a weekly salary of $143.25, the ITU's highest scale for day work.

The union is paying striking printers and mailers in New York City and Cleveland 60 per cent of scale if they have dependents and 40 per cent for those without dependents. The New York scale averages $145 a week, Brown said. Cleveland strikers have been out 70 days, New York strikers 62 days.

"We have not received a single group of votes against the assessment," Brown said, adding that scattered reports "make it pretty definite that the higher assessment will be approved," he said.

Complete unofficial returns are expected to be compiled at ITU headquarters by Saturday. The higher assessment, if approved, becomes effective on February earnings.

Hat Eating Out, Keating Contends WASHINGTON (AP) — An impartial referee may have to be called in to decide whether Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., should eat his hat.

Before Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara went on television late Wednesday, Keating told reporters he would eat his hat if McNamara refuted his charges of a dangerous Soviet buildup in Cuba.

"Do you have a hat for him?" McNamara was asked by one newsmen.

"I don't own a hat," McNamara shot back. "I hope he does, because he's going to have to eat it based on the evidence we've seen today."

Keating was undaunted. He insisted McNamara hadn't knocked down his charges.

"Well, it looks like I won't have to eat my hat," Keating said.

Cooke Dismisses Catskill Bid on School Promotion

Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello has dismissed an application of the Catskill Anti-Centralization Committee against pro-centralization promotion by the Catskill Board of Education. He also vacated a stay which had been issued last month by Supreme Court Justice Isadore Bookstein.

The Anti-Centralization Committee sought to prevent the school authorities from spending district funds or tax monies to advertise proposed centralization of Catskill's 18 school districts.

Justice Bookstein made an order to show cause returnable before Justice Cooke why the board of education should not be restrained from use of public monies to promote the centralization plan and in that order granted a temporary stay.

Justice Cooke heard the show cause arguments, ruled the committee's petition was premature since the board had not actually spent funds on the protested promotion. Justice Cooke did not rule on the merits of the case.

Wait Out New Law, Scranton Word on Schools

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton favors mandatory school district reorganization, but he has asked the State Council of Education to suspend all activity on consolidation plans until a new law is approved.

At his news conference Wednesday Scranton avoided a direct answer on whether he approved of Senate Republican amendments to rip out the mandatory features of the 1961 reorganization law.

The amendments were inserted in a bill that would push back for one year the various deadlines in the law designed to reduce the number of school districts from about 2,100 to 300.

Scranton said he felt it is clear that the Republican lawmakers want all activity on reorganization stopped for a year, including implementation of the 38 county plans submitted prior to the original deadline last Jan. 1. He added:

"I think it's important, and I am calling upon or requesting the council to stop doing this in view of the fact that it's quite clear that the legislature is going to take some action or other on the reorganization act."

Scranton said he plans to send a special message on education to the General Assembly next week.
